Town Council.

Council Chambers,
Napanee, Feb. 5th, 1912.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor W. T. Waller in the chair.

Members present—Reeve Alexander and Councillors Madill, Simpson, Osborne, Carson, Dickinson and Denison.

The minutes of the last regular and special sessions were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Bell Telephone Co., asking permission to dig up the road in front of their present premises. They intend moving across the street to the Campbell House block, and wish to run their lines under the ground to their new office. They would assume all responsibility for accidents occurring by reason of the excavation. Request granted.

From Heaton's Agency, Toronto, an advertising concern, their business being the setting forth of advantages of the different towns and cities in Canada for manufacturing sites. Their methods are the writing up of different places, illustrating same, as printing in book form, which are in turn sent all over the Dominion and foreign countries. Referred to Finance Committee to report.

From A. Ellis, architect, Kingston, stating that he would be pleased to come to Napanee for expenses and a fee of $5.00. This communication was a reply to a letter from the Town Property Committee in their endeavor to get some ideas concerning the erection of a covered market place.

Moved by Coun. Madill, seconded by Coun. Denison, that the above offer be accepted, and that Mr. Ellis be asked to come to Napanee to advise with the members of the Council.

Moved in amendment by Councillors Osborne and Carson, that the communication lay on the table until later in the evening. The original motion carried.

From W. B. Johnston and Wm. Finkle, applying for position of Sanitary Inspector.

From Dr. Cowan and Dr. Stratton applying for position of Medical Health Officer.

The above four communications were laid on the table until later in the evening.

From J. S. Madill, resigning position of member of local Board of Health. Resignation accepted.

The Finance Committee reported that they were negotiating for the purchase of a site for the Dominion Rock Drill Foundry Co. Mr. F. F. Miller had made a survey of the proposed site, but had not yet presented his report. They had also interviewed Mr. Sherwood, who had written the Rathbun Co., and who had received the assurance that everything is ready to proceed with the negotiations on the terms before mentioned, namely $200.00 per acre for manufacturing purposes. Adopted.

The Streets Committee, to whom was referred the contract with the Sawyer-Massey Co. for steam roller, reported that the town Solicitor advises that he does not think the date of delivery affects the contract, and that the test made in running roller citizens should be called as a protest to the way the town was being used by the Dominion Government in the matter of dredging the Napanee river. The citizens should get together and draft a good strong resolution to be forwarded to the Government, setting forth the very urgent need of the river being dredged the coming summer.

On motion of Mayor Waller, and Coun. Madill, it was resolved that a public meeting be called to discuss this all important question to Napanee, namely, dredging the river.

In rising to second the motion, Coun. Madill said that from the tone of Mr. Paul's letter it seemed quite evident that the Government had no intention of dredging the river this year. He said he felt quite strongly on this question of leaving the matter over for another year. There had already been two surveys made of the river, and there was no reason why the question could not be attended to this year.

Coun. Osborne said he agreed with Mayor Waller, and was also of the opinion that whatever steps were taken should be taken at once before the present session of parliament ended, and the strongest appeal possible made to the Government.

On motion of Councillors Simpson and Dickinson, Monday evening, Feb. 12th, was the date fixed when a public meeting would be held in the Town Hall, and that Mr. Paul, M.P. be asked to be present.

Moved by Coun. Osborne, seconded by Coun. Carson, that the Finance Committee have power to close up the deal for the purchase of the land for site for Dominion Rock Drill Foundry Co. Carried.

On motion of Councillors Osborne and Dickinson, the Town Solicitor and Town Clerk were instructed to take the necessary steps to have special legislation passed confirming the By-law between the Corporation and the Dominion Rock Drill Foundry Co.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were ordered paid:—

J. R. Daffoe $17.70, P. Gleeson $14.00, P. Gleeson $11.10, G. N. W. Telegraph Co. 25c., A. T. Harshaw $8.75, J. L. Boyes $20.95, F. E. VanLoven $14.00, Napanee Express $88.50, Montreal Star $4.00, Bell Telephone Co. $1.20, Bay of Quinte Railway $3.00, Boyle & Son $1.60, Seymour Power Co., light, as follows, streets $211.67, postoffice $6.48, fire hall $19.36, town hall $28.80. Total $256.31.

An account of the Bell Telephone Co., $9.00, was referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

Mayor Waller informed the members of the Council that he had learned of the fact that the Percival Plow Company, of Merrickville, was contemplating enlarging their plant and were looking for a change of location. At present their business was located partly at Newburgh and partly at Merrickville. This Company proposes to combine the two sections of their plant and enlarge the business, and would probably employ about seventy hands. Mayor Waller also said he had written the officers of the above named concern, setting forth the advantages of Napanee as a manufacturing centre, and invited the officers of the Company to visit Napanee and look the situation over. Mr. Waller said if the

The Streets Committee, to whom was referred the contract with the Sawyer-Massey Co. for steam roller, reported that the town Solicitor advises that he does not think the date of delivery affects the contract, and that the test made in running roller from station was sufficient, and in any case the Company's guarantee is sufficient protection to the town.
The Committee had instructed the Town Clerk to write the Company asking that date of payment be set forward on account of late delivery.

The Streets Committee also reported in reference to Miss Shuter's claim for damages against the town.
They had interviewed the Town Solicitor, and he advises that the notice sent by Miss Shuter's solicitor is insufficient, and that in consequence the corporation is not legally liable. Should the Council feel disposed to regard the claim in any other light that would be a matter for it to dispose of. The Committee recommended that the matter be left in the hands of the Streets Committee to dispose of, subject to the approval of the Council. Report adopted.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee were given further time to report on the question of extending the waterworks mains to meet the requirements of the Dominion Rock Drill Foundry Co.

A communication was read from Mr. W. J. Paul, M.P., in reference to dredging the Napanee river. The letter stated that Mr. Paul had arranged with the Hon. Mr. Monk, Minister of Public Works, to have a re-survey made of the channel as soon as spring opened, and find out what is required and what can be done. The writer stated that he did not anticipate any difficulty in securing a grant in the near future, but never could tell until they got the money. Ordered filed for future reference.

Some discussion took place in reference to a by-law for taxing and tagging dogs. The matter was referred to the Printing and By-law Committee to draft a suitable by-law and bring it before the Council.

A By-law appointing Mr. F. S.
Scott a member of the Board of Education for a term of three years, was passed.

A By-law appointing Mr. E. J.
Walters a member of the Board of Health for a term of two years was passed.

A By-law for the appointment of a Sanitary Inspector was introduced, and given its first reading.

Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading,
Coun. Dickinson in the chair.

Moved by Councillors Osborne and Carson, that the blank in the By-law be filled in with the name of Wm. Finkle.

Moved in amendment by Reeve
Alexander, seconded by Mayor Waller, that the blank be filled in with the name of W. B. Johnston. Amendment carried.

The By-law was then given its third reading, and W. B. Johnston appointed Sanitary Inspector for 1912, at a salary of $75.00.

The By-law for the appointment of a Medical Health Officer was ordered laid on the table.

The Auditors, Messrs. John T.
Grange and A. E. Paul, presented their report, which was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Reeve Alexander and Coun. Carson, it was ordered that the Auditors be paid their remuneration as per By-law.

Mayor Waller asked Coun. Denison to take the chair.

Mayor Waller then stated that in his opinion a public meeting of the Waller also said he had written the officers of the above named concern, setting forth the advantages of Napanee as a manufacturing centre, and invited the officers of the Company to visit Napanee and look the situation over. Mr. Waller said if it was the wish of the Council he would continue the negotiations.

Moved by Coun. Osborne, seconded by Coun. Madill, that the Mayor and Clerk continue negotiations with the Percival Plow Co., and invite them to meet the Council at its next session, and lay before this body their proposition for locating

The Kingston Whig, of Wednesday, says: "Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, has informed the utilities committee that as soon as the city council notifies
the commission as to what course it intends to take with reference to power supply, it will take the necessary steps to meet the needs of the city without delay. His letter was in reply to one sent him by Manager Folger, who asked if the city should in the meantime continue negotiations with the Seymour company, which has its power transmission line extended as far east as Napanee. The utilities committee, at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon, decided to recommend to council that negotiations for power be at once entered into with the Hydro Electric Commission. It is expected that this will bring matters to a head.
It will now be known whether the Hydro-Electric Commission will be able to give Kingston power before next fall. The view is expressed that the commission may arrange with the Seymour company to take charge of Kingston's needs in the meantime, or until the commission takes over the company's Trent river rights and business, for which negotiations are now proceeding. The fact that Mr. Beck's letter stated that the commission would take steps to meet the needs of the city "without delay" caused the committee to feel hopeful that power would be put into Kingston at an early date. The committee has yet to decide the amount of power for which the city should contract."

J. L. BOYES,

THE CASE OF GEORGE I. HAM.

The Toronto Globe, of Monday, has the following to say, speaking editorially, on the case of Mr. Geo. I. Ham, who is at present being detained in prison in Mexico City:

"The statement that the British Government had intervened in the case of George I. Ham, the Canadian, charged with criminal acts in connection with the failure of the United States Bank of Mexico City, is denied by the Mexican authorities. It was asserted that an ultimatum had been presented demanding the release on or before Monday, January 21, of Mr. Ham, who, it was claimed, had been held without trial, or serious investigation for two years in a Mexican jail. The Mexican Herald of January 21, publishes an interview with Senor Tejado, the Procureur-General of the Mexican Republic, denying the reports of intervention, and stating that final disposal of the case against Ham would be made as speedily as possible. The assertion that no trial had taken place is shown to be entirely foundationless. As a matter of fact there are fourteen large volumes of evidence in existence, and the trial Judge has been granted leave of absence for twenty days to enable him to go over the evidence, after which he will pronounce sentence.

"The case of the international importance of the case a brief has been prepared by the Procureur-General, which will be published in both English and Spanish, and will enable persons outside of Mexico who have heard only the defence to judge of the case on its merits."

the international importance of the case a brief has been prepared by the Procureur-General, which will be published in both English and French, and will enable persons outside of Mexico who have heard only the defence to judge of the case on its merits.

It is significant of the trend of affairs under the Madero Government that Senor Tejado says he has received letters indicating the desire to bribe him were he open to that method of settling the case. "It would make no difference," he said, "if the offer had been for twenty-five millions instead of thousands. Justice at the present time is not for sale." If Madero's Government sticks to that motto it will be well for the Republic. It is important, however, that justice shall not only not be for sale, but that it shall not be unduly delayed. The detention of Mr. Ham in prison for two years before the final disposition of the case is worthy the attention of the Government of Canada and of the British Ambassador to Mexico, who should see to it that the prisoner shall either be regularly convicted or promptly freed."

that our leading citizens are realizing that our Movement is an ideal one for boys; helping to develop in them the true spirit of manliness that will be of benefit to them all through life. Boys are taking an interest in the welfare and future of this Canada of ours and are beginning to realize that we are to become a nation, they must every one of them do their part towards this end and not only themselves, but they are also helping the other fellow who may, through circumstances, be a little downhearted. 7000 boys in the Province of Ontario alone trying to live day by day that they may be of service to their fellow-man: 7000 boys doing their good turn every day, 365 days of the year, 2,555,000 good turns done each year at the present strength, which will double during 1912. Yet in the face of this, some will say that Boy Scouts are being trained for the purpose of going out to shoot the other fellow. What utter nonsense! "There are none so blind as those that will not see." To those who are opposed to the Movement I would say:—Secure the "Canadian Boy Scout" and read before making your final decision as to the value of the Movement among boys. We have during the past few weeks been somewhat misunderstood in so far that the proposed Cadet Camps have been termed "Boy Scout Camps." The Boy Scout Movement is a separate organization working along its own lines under the principles as laid down in the "Canadian Boy Scout" that of making clean, healthy, all-round citizens of the lads throughout the Dominion. Boy Scout Camps are held either by combined Towns or Districts, or in individual troops, and financed by the boys themselves or by friends of the respective troops or districts. During 1911 the majority of the troops held camps which were a success.

The time is now opportune for a gathering together of all those who are associated with the Boy Scout Movement. Realizing this, the Provincial Council for Ontario have called a Conference at Toronto for Feb. 23rd, and 24th next. The Conferences will be held in the City Hall and a splendid programme is being arranged, which will be composed of talks by our lead-Scout officers and others, and in which all phases of Boy Scout Life will be dealt with. The social end will be well taken care of and we hope to have a rousing Convention with representatives from all parts of the Province. The railways are giving special rates. ## LITTLE WORRIES

IN THE HOME

It is These That Bring Wrinkles and Make Women Look Prematurely Old.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with many little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is these same constant little worries that make so many women look prematurely old. Their effect may be noticed in sick or nervous headaches, feeble appetite, pain in the back or side, sallow complexion, and the coming of wrinkles, which every woman dreads. To those thus afflicted Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy and certain cure, a restoration of color to the cheeks, brightness to the eye, a healthy appetite and a sense of freedom from weariness.

Among the thousands of Canadian women who have found new health and new strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. W. C. Daerr, London, Ont., who says: "About two years ago I found myself so badly run down that it was almost impossible to perform my household duties. I fell off in flesh, was weak and very pale, had no appetite, feet constantly cold, and to further make my life miserable I was afflicted with those other ailments from which so many women suffer. I tried many kinds of medicine, but got no benefit, and began to feel that I was slipping into chronic invalidism. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I felt somewhat hopeless, decided to do so. To my delight, after taking the Pills a few weeks, I felt much better, and a further use of them brought me back to my old time health. I have since recommended the Pills to many others, and those who have used them have always been benefited."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHAPTER XIII.—(Cont'd)

Fairholme glanced around admiringly. "Of course," he cried delightedly, "I knew you would guess it. That is the pleasant way these Turks have of securing their prisoners."

"It is an awfully uncomfortable one," said Talbot. "My joints are still stiff at the mere recollection of it. I have lain in that way, Mr. Brett, for countless hours. Occasionally the brutes would allow me to change my posture, but the moment any one came to the door I was strapped up in an instant and a gag slipped into my mouth. What used to make me so furious was the knowledge that if only I got the chance of a second I could have broken that Frenchman's neck and escaped, but he and his wife always took such precautions that I never had the liberty to do more than reach with some difficulty the food that they gave me. However, I must not interrupt."

"I really have not much more to say," went on Fairholme. "You may be sure it did not take me long to release Talbot, and what do you think his first words were when he slowly sat up in bed and tried if his leg would bend?"

"I cannot guess," said Brett. "He said: 'Have they got the diamonds?'"

"I answered 'Yes.'"

"But it was impossible," he said. "They could not have mastered all those policemen."

"But they did," I replied, and then and there, before he would budge an inch, he made me tell him the whole story. Just as I had ended we heard a scuffle in the passage. We went out, though Jack was hardly able to walk at first. It was Smith wrestling with the woman, who was a regular wild cat, and he would, even then, have done us any mischief in her power. There was nothing for it but to tie her hands behind her back, and then fasten her securely in a chair. After this was done we took counsel as to our next movements."

"Wait a little," said Brett. "How many rooms were there in the flat? You have accounted for four."

"I forgot," said Fairholme. "The place had six rooms. The small apartment in which Jack was confined was a sort of dressing-room, and the bedroom beyond looked out into the wall of the block of flats. They had carefully nailed the blind of this dressing-room, so that not even a chance puff of wind could blow it aside and reveal its secret to any one in the flats on the opposite story or higher. The remaining room was empty. Your friend the policeman subsequently searched the place from top to toe, but he found nothing. The only document of any importance was an address on a card which he discovered in the Frenchman's pocket."

"Ah," said Brett, "what was that address?"

"Here it is."

The card produced a small piece reached London that night, and they bore with them a special mandate, signed by the Sultan himself, directing Mehemet Ali to hand over the diamonds to their charge. and at once to return with his assistants to Yildiz Kiosk.

"There could be no questioning the authenticity of the Sultan's instructions. The document was in his own handwriting, and conveyed with his private seal, and conveyed other distinguishing marks which rendered his Excellency assured on this important point. He told me that he was compelled to obey implicitly, and were it possible he would have started from London that night. This, however, was out of the question, but he had not lost a moment in sending for me and acquainting me with his Majesty's wishes."

"You will readily perceive that the affair placed me in an awkward predicament. I was, so to speak, representing the British Government in the matter, and the Foreign Office had pledged itself, through our Ambassador at Constantinople, to undertake all the precautions for safeguarding the diamonds with which you are acquainted. It seemed to me that notwithstanding the urgency of the Sultan's order, I should not be doing my duty to permit the transfer to be made in such an irregular manner. So I said quite plainly that the matter could not be settled that night. They must all wait until the morning, when I would consult my Department and Mehemet Ali, together with his aides, could leave for Constantinople by the evening train, after my superiors had been acquainted with the Sultan's wishes."

"Turks are difficult people to understand. It seemed to me that my decision gave some satisfaction to Mehemet Ali, who was undoubtedly very much upset by the queer manner in which he had been deposed from his important trust. At once an animated discussion took place."

"In French?" interrupted Brett.

"No; in Turkish."

"Did the gentleman with the sabre-cut on his face take any part therein?"

"Not in the least. He sat and smoked cigarettes in the most unconscious manner possible, leaving his two associates to carry on the conversation."

As the barrister appeared to have no further question to ask at the moment, Talbot continued—

"Several times Mehemet Ali appealed to me to change my mind and formally ratify the transfer at once. I was quite firm in my refusal, and did not hesitate to describe the Sultan's demands as ridiculous. I was rendered more determined, if anything, in this attitude by a growing certainty in my mind that his Excellency himself approved of my attitude. Ultimately, it seems, they hit upon a compromise. The whole party would remain together all night in

"Didn't that strike you as curious?"

"Most certainly it did. But the scoundrel explained it afterwards by telling me that although a Turkish subject, he had lived in Algiers and France since he was a child, and had quite forgotten his mother tongue. But he was employed in a confidential position in the Turkish Embassy at Paris, owing not only to family influence, but to his intimate acquaintance with the French language."

"Ah!" said Brett, "Monsieur Henri Dubois has a ready wit."

"What!" cried Edith, who naturally enough was following each word with the utmost interest, "do you already know his name?"

"Not only his name," replied Brett, "but his identity, Miss Talbot. You shall see him in another skin and without the sword-cut. It is possible, however, that before we meet, this distinguishing mark may be replaced by a fractured skull or a bullet wound."

Fairholme suddenly clenched his right fist and examined his knuckles, his unconscious action causing the others to laugh.

"Is he a Frenchman, then?" said Talbot.

"Unquestionably—a most modern product."

"And his name is Dubois?"

"Yes."

"All right. In future I will allude to him by his proper title. Well, Monsieur Debois stroffed towards me with the easy confidence of a man who was sure of himself. "This affair bores me," he said.

"I see no reason why I, who am in no way concerned with the Sultan's collection of precious stones, should sit up all night keeping guard over them with these very earnest gentlemen here. I am going to my hotel. I have sent my portmanteau to the Carlton. Will you honor me by driving there and telling me something about your wonderful London as we go?"

"The man looked at me with a meaning in his eyes that conveyed the intimation—

"We can talk quietly in the cab, and I can explain much that is at present hidden." Unfortunately I fell in with his suggestions.

"We crossed the dining-room together. We were searched by the police in the hall, much to his apparent surprise, and then we drove off through St. George's Place.

address on a card which he discovered in the Frenchman's pocket." "Ah," said Brett, "what was that address?" "Here it is." The earl produced a small piece of pasteboard on which was scribbled, "Monsieur Jean Beaujolais, chez Monsieur Henri de Lisle, 41, Rue Bonnerie, Paris." "That is important," said the barrister. "Why did you not wire it to me last night?" "I had a reason," said the earl eagerly, "but that comes in with Jack's part of the story." And he turned towards Talbot, who, thus summoned to the stage, began to explain matters.

"I understand, Mr. Brett," he said, "that you are accurately acquainted with all that transpired until the moment when I entered the Albert Gate mansion on that remarkable night." "That is so," said Brett. "Well, when Inspector Sharpe met me at the door on my arrival he told me that his Excellency Mehemet Ali, with three strange gentlemen and the junior members of the commission, awaited me in the dining-room. I went in and was surprised to find the three visitors, for during the preceding month not a single stranger had entered the house save a member of the Government and one or two important officials of the Foreign Office, who came with me out of sheer curiosity to see a collection of remarkable diamonds.

The strangers bowed politely when I was introduced. Two of them spoke neither French nor English, but the third man spoke French fluently. He had, by the way, a somewhat peculiar accent, different from that to which I was accustomed in the Turks. It was softer, more sibilant, and impressed me as that of a man who was accustomed to speak Italian. He was a good-looking chap, about my height and build, and were it not for his brown skin, one would not have regarded him as a Turk. One side of his face was deeply scarred with a sword cut, but, if anything, this did not detract from his appearance, and it gave a manly aspect to an otherwise effeminate face.

Brett could not help smiling involuntarily.

"Are you sure it was a sword cut?"

"It certainly looked like one."

"And his skin was very brown?"

"Oh, quite. Indeed it was a shade deeper than that of most Turks. I have seen very many of them. Although dark-skinned, they are often pallid enough in reality, and their deep-hued complexion is due more to their black hair and eyebrows than to the mere color of the skin." Brett smiled again.

"I think," he said, "I will show you the same gentleman in a somewhat different aspect. But proceed."

"The explanation given to me by Mehemet Ali was both extraordinary and disconcerting, especially at such a late hour. He told me that the three gentlemen to whom I had been introduced—I am sorry by the way, that I cannot remember their names, as they were all Mohammeds, or Rasuls, or Ibrahims, and the dramatic events of the night subsequently drove them from my mind—had been sent post haste from Constantinople on a special mission. They had only determined, if anything, in this attitude by a growing certainty in my mind that his Excellency himself approved of my attitude. Ultimately, it seems, they hit upon a compromise. The whole party would remain together all night in a sort of dual control, and then the change of guardianship would take place next day in accordance with my views as to what was right and proper. I must admit I was intensely relieved when this decision was arrived at. Looking back now over the events of the night, I can perceive that from that moment the gang who effected the murders and the robbery had me in their power, for they had completely succeeded in allaying my suspicions, and I can only plead in extenuation of my shortsightedness that Mehemet Ali himself, and the other gentlemen with whom I had been acquainted during the past month, were willing accessories to the arrangement."

"I do not see," said Brett, "that you have the slightest cause to reproach yourself. You acted quite properly throughout, and I am sure that when all the facts are known your status at the Foreign Office will be improved rather than diminished by this incident."

"Thank you," he replied simply. "I certainly took every precaution that suggested itself to me. Subsequently I was the victim of circumstances. The French-speaking Turk, as I have told you, took no part whatever in the negotiations, and when he became aware of the modus operandi determined upon—" "By the way," said Brett, "how did he become aware of it?"

"Oh, Mehemet Ali told him in French."

WOULD SCREAM FOR HOURS WITH ECZEMA

Baby Dreadful Sufferer. Could Not Keep Him from Scratching. Every Joint Affected. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and He Is Well.

"Enclosed find my son's photo and I feel by writing these few lines to you I am only doing my duty, as my son was a dreadful sufferer from eczema. At the age of two weeks he began to get covered with red spots on his legs and groins, which mother thought was red gum or thrush; but day by day it grew worse until every joint and crevice were affected and baby started screaming for hours day and night, such a thing as sleep was out of the question. I took him to two of Sydney's leading doctors, one said it was one of the worst cases he had seen, the other did not think it so serious; one ordered ointment for rubbing in, the other a dusting powder. I followed their prescriptions for over four months and still he was getting worse. I could not keep him from scratching so great was his agony."

"When he was five months old I tried the Cuticura Remedies and I am very thankful to say my baby is to-day free from all his suffering. His groin was bleeding when I started, and other parts affected were the lower part of his body, under the knees, arms, in arm joints, eyebrows and neck; but after twice using Cuticura Ointment I began to see a difference and by the time I had used one tin, along with the bathing with Cuticura Soap, baby was nearly cured. I still kept on using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and now, thank goodness, he is quite well and, although he is now ten months old, has not had any further return of the skin trouble." (Signed) Mrs. G. Martin, 2 Knight St., Ennisville, Sydney, N.S.W., Mar. 31, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, but a liberal sample of each with a 32-page book on the treatment of the skin and hair will be sent free on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 60 Columbus Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

right means is shown in the case of Mrs. Mary A. Cook, who was and highly respected here. In an interview regarding her cure, of which all the village knows, Mrs. Cook says:

"I had Rheumatism so bad that sometimes I would sit up nearly all night."

"I first thought I would try the doctors, but luckily I decided to first try Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"They cured me, and I didn't have to try the doctors. And just to think that after fourteen years of suffering one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills should cure! I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone who suffers from Rheumatism."

Yes, it is easy to cure Rheumatism when you go the right way about it. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the Kidneys are working right they will strain all the uric acid out of the blood and there can be no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make the Kidneys work right.

DON'T MISS THIS.

If a woman has one daughter, who goes away, the Mrs. misses the Miss and the Miss misses the Mrs. If she has two daughters and both are away, the Mrs. misses the Misses and the Misses miss the Mrs. If she has three daughters and two are at once place and one at another, the Mrs. misses the Miss and the Misses, and the Miss misses the Mrs. and the Misses. If it is four daughters she has and two are at one place, while the other two are away from home and separated, the Mrs. misses the Miss and the Misses and the Miss, and the Miss and the Misses miss the Misses and the Mrs., while the Misses miss the Mrs. and the Miss misses the Miss and the Misses and the Mrs. So they would all better remain at home with the Mr. of the Mrs.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills."

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

TREATMENT OF CANCER.

Good Reason for Hope From the Radium Method.

The medical correspondent of the Daily Graphic says that a satisfactory result has come to light regarding the treatment of cancer by the radium method at King's College Hospital.

A large cancer growth had to be dealt with. An operation previously had been performed, but the cancer returned with renewed virulence. X-rays and other treatments were then tried without success and finally 250 milligrammes of pure radium bromide were applied for twenty-four hours.

The tubes were so arranged that the diseased parts were subjected to a regular cross fire of the curative rays and the application was repeated once only. As a result of the treatment it is stated that pain quickly ceased and the growth rapidly shrank up so that at the end of five weeks it had disappeared.

A doctor in describing the case says that if this result can be repeated and the technique of the treatment so improved that even deep seated tumors can be brought under the radio-active influence there will be very good reason for supposing that the long hoped for conquest of cancer is indeed at hand.

THE PRINCESS MARY.

Will Not Allow Her Ornaments Until She is 17.

Though Princess Mary is very fond of jewellery, she is not allowed to wear any ornament except a string of perfectly matched pearls on state occasions and a little gold chain and locket, which contains a piece of white heather, in the home circle. The pearls were her mother's gift to her at the time of the coronation, and the locket was presented to her by the Prince of Wales, who bought it when he was at Cowes for the regatta.

Queen Mary has left it be understood that no one is to give Princess Mary jewellery of any sort till she is 17, and before the Royal party left for the Durbar, the Queen repeated her wishes on this score, so whatever Princess Mary received for Christmas she can be quite sure that no gems, not even the modest and childish turquoise came her way.

The Princess has confessed to some of the ladies of the court that she does not mind not having rings and pins and chains, but that she yearns for long gold earrings set with rubies and diamonds, and that when she is 17 she hopes a set will be given to her, and if not she will buy them herself.

A MODERN MIRACLE.

He Had Eczema 25 Years and Doctors Said "No Cure." Yet Zam-Buk Has Worked Complete Cure.

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose case can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh, the gentleman referred to, lives at 101 Delorimier Avenue, Montreal, and has lived there for years. For twenty-five years he has had eczema on his hands and wrists.

In that time four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave up the case as hopeless. Naturally, Mr. Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last gave it up. For two years he had to wear gloves day and night, so terrible was the pain and itching when the air got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it, just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs of benefit, and a little perseverance with this great herbal balm resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure! And the cure was no temporary cure. It was permanent. He was cured nearly four years ago. Interviewed the other day, Mr. Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return."

If you suffer from any skin trouble, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it, with one cent stamp to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE.
Dignity and seriousness of conduct appertain to courts of law, but there are now and then judges who give occasional rein to their sense of humor. Says M. A. P.:
The late Lord Young of the Scottish bench was responsible for enlivening many a dull case. One of the most amusing remarks that ever fell from his lips was the reply to a counsel who urged on behalf of a plaintiff of somewhat bibulous appearance, "My client, my lord, is a most able man, and holds a very responsible position; he is manager of some water-works."
After a long look, the judge answered, "Yes, he looks like a man who could be trusted with any amount of water."

CHOICE RECIPES.

Chestnut Pudding. Twenty-four chestnuts will be needed for a pint mold. Take off the brown skin, plunge them in boiling water for a minute or two, and peel off the red skins. Make a syrup of sugar and water sufficient to cover the chestnuts in a saucepan. Flavor this with vanilla, set over the fire and gently stew the chestnuts until they are soft; by this time they will have absorbed the syrup almost entirely. Pass them through a wire sieve while the chestnuts are stewing. Prepare a custard with half a pint of milk, boiled and cooled, a gill of cream, two whole eggs, and two yolks, or omit the cream and use three-quarters of a pint of milk. Sweeten with an ounce of sugar, mix the custard in a saucepan over the hot water pan until it is rich and creamy, and cool it as soon as it is ready. Then make a cupful of caramel. Stir one tablespoonful of sugar over a low fire till the sugar melts and becomes a rich brown syrup, turn this into a mold to form a cap; let it harden; mix the puree and custard and pour this in cold. Cover the mold and steam. Butter the mold well beforehand.

Maple Perfect.—Beat four eggs slightly and pour on them slowly one-half pint hot maple syrup. Cook until the mixture thickens and cool it; then add one teaspoonful almond extract, remove from the range, cool, and then add one pint of thick cream beaten until the fire at once and let stand until lukewarm. Beat until like soft dough; then knead with the hands until thick and creamy. Pack away in glass, cover and keep in a cool place. When wanted to use, put some in a bowl, set the bowl in hot water, and stir until soft enough to spread on cake. Add desired flavor, and use. This icing will keep an indefinite time if kept covered as directed. Corn syrup may be substituted for glucose.

Grape Juice Taffy. Make an ordinary lemonade, add the juice of two oranges, a little pineapple syrup, and a quart of grape juice. This will make a delicious drink or punch to serve at parties or receptions.

Castor oil rubbed well into boots or shoes will help to preserve the leather and lengthen the life of the boots. Any oil can be used, but castor oil is the best.

To shine boots quickly do not blacken, but rub with a piece of orange. Let the juice dry in, and then polish with a soft brush, when they will shine like a mirror.

To save paint and furniture from being knocked and scratched when sweeping, nail pads of velvet cloth on all brooms and brushes, especially those used for stairs.

When boiling cabbage, tie up a piece of bread or small crust in a muslin bag and drop it into the saucepan. This will prevent the smell of the cabbage penetrating into the room.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON,
FEBRUARY 11.

Lesson VI.—The boy Jesus in the Temple., Luke 2. 40-52. Golden Text, 2. 49.

Verse 40. The child grew—Developed normally as a human being.

Waxed strong—He was a healthy child, strong both physically and intellectually. The verb wax is still good English, from the Anglo-Saxon weaxan, to assume by degrees a specified state or condition. (Compare the German wachsen, to grow.)

Filled with wisdom—Literally, becoming full of wisdom. The wisdom was a matter of growth as much as was the strength of body and mind.

41. His parents went—Women were not required to go, but often voluntarily accompanied their husbands and sons.

The passover—Originally a harvest festival, which later was observed also as a memorial of the exodus. Compare Exod. 23. 14-17.

42. When he was twelve years old—A time of special significance in every Jewish boy's life, when in a religious sense he reached his majority, becoming himself responsible for obedience to the law and for performing all requirements devolving upon adult males. In other than religious matters, he still remained subject to paternal oversight and authority.

After the custom—in harmony with the custom. This required that the feast be celebrated at Jerusalem by all males. The privilege of attendance was, however, extended to women. This brought about great annual pilgrimages to the national capital at this special season.

43. When they had fulfilled the days—Seven days, during which they were required to eat unleavened bread and to observe special ceremonies prescribed for each day. The first and seventh days were set apart for "a holy convocation." Compare Exod. 12. 15-17.

The boy Jesus tarried behind—Absorbed in the interest which the wonderful services and ceremonies of the temple presented.

44. Supposing him to be in the company—The caravan of friends

The Green .. .. River Knife

The bark Jacqueline lay anchored in Rio roadstead. Her plates were red with deep sea rust and her and her four lofty masts of steel parasites which the tropics breed. Her great steel spars were squared, and her four lofty masts of steel tapered rigid to the stars among their maze of rigging.

"I'll make it a hundred," said Pedro Suarez, the captain of the ship, "and not a dollar more."

"But what business is it of ours? It's a dirty job at best," answered Kirk, the gray-haired chief mate.

"Well, you can take it or leave it, Kirk, but I'm going to take this girl for a trip, as I said I would, and I'll bring her back at the end of a year, as I said I would."

"I don't like it. It's dirty work. It means taking her to Auckland, to Sydney, to London, and bringing her back here again; to say nothing of keeping her close when we're in port. And a blue-water sailing ship is no place for a girl. What would your owners say if they got wind of it?"

"Hang your ifs. I'd pass her off as my wife."

"O, you would, would you? Now, look here, Captain Suarez, I'm a poor man. I don't like the job, but if you swear solemn, on the book, that she'll come to no harm I'll help you to get the girl on board and keep her there for a fair share of the coin. I dare say she'll be glad enough not to marry that young Italian after a bit for all his money; but I won't stir a finger for less than I said. Take it from me."

"It's too much—too much—"

"You can get it right enough. You just go and talk to young Zamorra's father. He'll brass up."

Down in the city young Juan Alvarez Zamorra gazed with bright, passionate eyes at the exquisite dancer, Anita Duprez, the French half-caste who had taken all Rio de Janeiro by storm. He loved her with all his heart and soul—he lived for her day by day, and night by night.

When his father offered her a one-half pint hot maple syrup. Cook until the mixture thickens and cool it; then add one teaspoonful almond extract, remove from the range, cool, and then add one pint of thick cream beaten until stiff. Mold, pack in salt and ice, and let stand four hours. This recipe serves six persons.

Crullers.—To five potatoes add five cups of flour, two cups of granulated sugar, one cup of sweet milk, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, and three eggs. Boil potatoes and mash them. Put in the butter while warm. One may use sour milk and soda in place of baking powder.

Doughnuts.—To one-half cup of sugar add one cup sweet milk, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon of soda, one egg beaten well, half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of nutmeg, and flour enough to make a dough that can be handled easily. Make little rolls with the hands and pinch together. Do not roll on board or cut with cutter. Fry as you do other doughnuts. They will not soak fat.

Tomales.—Cover a four pound chicken with hot water and simmer until tender. Add to the water four onions, a stick of cinnamon, ten whole cloves and allspice, three red Chile peppers, one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt. When the chicken is cooked remove it from the pot and cut into small pieces. Strain the liquor and put the chicken meat into it. Then add enough yellow meal to make a thick mush. Have ready green corn from a dozen ears and two pounds of raisins, seeded. Put into the mush and mix. Add one-half teaspoonful of red pepper. Fill corn husks with the mixture tying up securely at both ends. When the husks are filled, throw into hot water and boil half an hour.

Celery Soup.—Put on to stew one cup of chopped celery; one may use the outside stalks and keep the good, yellow for the table. When it is done drain, put in pepper, salt and butter to suit taste. Then add one and a half cups milk and thicken with one tablespoon flour. Then add celery liquid; beat one egg, put in and serve.

Vinegar Frosting.—A teaspoonful of vinegar beaten into boiled frosting when the flavoring is added will keep it from being brittle and breaking when cut, and it will be as moist in a week as the day it was made. Also a teaspoonful of vinegar added to each pint of home made syrup will prevent it from candying.

DELICACIES.

Angel Food in Pyramids.—One of the prettiest things seen recently at a spring luncheon was angel food served in small pyramids. Beat the whites of nine eggs to a stiff froth; beat in a level teaspoonful of cream of tartar; add flavoring. Beat into this mixture lightly one cup of granulated sugar, sifted. Then add one cup of flour, sifted. Grease lightly with lard one dozen jelly glasses. Fill these half full of the mixture. Place the lids on and steam for one hour. After the cakes are cold, cover with boiled icing.

Confectioner's Icing.—Two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one teaspoonful of glucose, one cupful of water. Boil together without stirring until it forms a thread when dropped from a fork. Take from muslin bag and drop it into the saucepan. This will prevent the smell of the cabbage penetrating into the room.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Salt and vinegar will remove stains from discolored teacups.

If a chicken is rubbed inside and out with a cut lemon it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

Before boiling milk always rinse out the saucepan with cold water. This will prevent the milk from burning.

Keys that never seem to stay in place may be fastened to the knobs of the doors to which they belong by small gift cords.

When washing hairbrushes dip the bristles in milk before drying, and they will become quite stiff instead of getting soft, as is usually the case.

Before frying bacon soak it in water for three or four minutes. This will prevent the fat from running and will make the bacon go further.

If you want the contents of a saucepan to cook quickly, never leave a spoon in it. The spoon carries off a great deal of the heat, and delays the boiling.

Stains on enameled saucepans may be removed by dissolving a half teaspoonful of chloride of lime in the saucepan of water, and then boil till the stain disappears. Then boil again with pure water.

To deodorize saucepans after cooking onions, cabbage or fish, try this plan: Wash and dry the pan, then place a piece of thick brown paper on the stove, set fire to it and turn the saucepan over the blaze. After a few moments remove it, and the odor will not be noticed.

CONFECTIONERY.

Fruit Candles.—Boil three cups of sugar and one cup of water, then flavor with lemon. Set the vessel containing the boiled syrup in a larger one of hot water to keep it warm, put a nut on the end of a fine knitting needle, dip into the candy, take out, and turn until it is cool. Malaga grapes, quartered oranges, and other fruits may be used in the same way. Fruits candied in this manner are for present use.

Fruit and Nut Candy.—One cup of molasses, one and a half cups of sugar, half a cup of butter, half of a cup of mixed nuts, half a pound of figs, half a pound of raisins, half a pound of currants. Boil molasses, sugar, and butter until brittle. Seed and chop the raisins; also chop the figs and nuts, coarse; add the fruit and nuts to the candy and spread on a buttered surface to harden. Cut in strips or squares.

Nuts and Nuggets.—Two and one-half cups of granulated sugar, one-half cup of corn syrup, one-half cup of cold water, two eggs beaten to a stiff froth. When the syrup boils all over, take one cupful and pour over eggs. Let the remainder boil till stiff and hard, when dropped into the water. When done pour over the eggs and beat till stiff; then pour in a cupful of nuts. Spread thin and cut into squares.

47. All that heard him—Including the learned teachers of the law.

48. Son—Literally, child. A touch of endearment as well as reproof is evident in the words of Mary.

49. How is it?—Jesus is surprised not at their coming back for him, but at their not knowing immediately where to look for him.

In my Father's house—Or, about my Father's business. Literally, in or about the things of my Father. The boy's question implies an appeal to his past obedience and loyalty to his parents, as well as to their supposed understanding of the fact that in a special sense his was to be a life for God. Mary's early training of her son without doubt contributed much to inculcating this conviction, which now is strengthened and clarified by the enlightenment of the Spirit.

51. Was subject unto them—A fact specially mentioned by the evangelist lest from what precedes his readers might infer the contrary.

52. Stature—Or, age.

Favor—Or, grace.

small fortune to leave the city, she laughed. And, indeed, she was beautiful, and so skilled in her profession as to be independent of all monetary temptations.

She knew that she held young Juan Zamorra securely bound, but the stubborn pride and convention of the old family, whose ancestors had fought with the Conquistadores, proved an insuperable barrier to the union. So it was that the negotiations with the skipper of the Jacqueline came about. This girl Duprez must be got out of the way at all risks and at any cost.

The next night, as Anita left the music hall with her lover's arm held tight under her own, the pair were followed by a party of sailors.

Presently, in a dark by-road, Zamorra stopped, took Anita by her hands and demanded a kiss. So they stood together, and in the street of Rio lost sense of time and space. They did not heed the shadows that slipped along within the shadows.

There were only two cries—swiftly smothered. The girl was strong, but though she fought like an eel on a line, the binding held, and they carried her away. Her lover was left bound and gagged after the sailors had gone through his pockets. He was found by a gendarme at dawn.

As the ship began to lift to the swell of the ocean, Anita Duprez, looking very beautiful and dishevelled, stood facing Captain Suarez and Kirk in the dim-lit cuddy. At last, finding them unmoved, she said desperately:

"I shall appeal to the men!"

"I shall tell them you are my wife!" said Suarez.

"Your wife? Oh, they will not believe it!"

"All the worse for you!"

"You must put me ashore at the first port of call—you must!"

"Senorita, on the contrary, you will be locked in your cabin."

The girl saw how utterly dependent she was on these rough seamen for even the veriest necessities of life—for life itself, perhaps.

"How much do you want—how much to put me ashore?"

The two men looked at each other.

"Say how much!"

Suarez ran his eye over her and was silent.

Anita turned to Kirk, and her bosom rose and fell.

"Well, Miss, it's like this," said he, stepping forward, "we've been paid, and paid very handsome, too, to keep you out of that youngster's way for a spell. Half down and the other on completion of our contract, as you might say. Besides you won't come to no harm, and it'll be all right if he's still waiting for you when you get back. I he isn't why, Miss, you see, that'll be all right, too. Anyway, it'll be no concern of ours. Besides, I shouldn't think he was much loss to a fine girl like you, Miss!"

The captain looked wickedly at the mate, whose honest English contempt for Italians was little to his liking.

"Senorita, I have decided. Go to your bunk!"

"No. This is kidnapping. I claim the protection of my flag."

You shall pay for this outrage."

"Haden't you better go to your cabin, Miss Duprez?" asked Kirk.

Anita's instinct told her that this weather-worn sailor was her friend—that he would use her courteous-ly, and that he would protect her. He was wild and lawless, rough and ready, at times brutal to the men, but God's winds had blown him through all the seas wherever the keels of wandering traders go and bred something noble in him.

Anita turned slowly at his suggestion and came face to face with Olsenborg, who was coming below.

"Ho-ho!" said the great, blue-eyed northerner slowly. "Who is der lady? She seems opset."

Kirk went on deck to relieve him and Olsenborg sat down and stuffed beef into his mouth and poured out whisky. His yellow hair shone in the lamplight as he flung his cap on a locker, in clumsy deference to the girl. As he drank he looked at her again and met her eyes.

"Eh, captain, what is she doing on the sheep? Et ees not goot!"

"Look here, Olsenborg, this lady is my wife. I did not tell you I was getting married."

"Oh-ho! your wife. . . . She looks like eet!"

"No! No!" cried Anita.

"So, you are a liar! What haf you been paid to do this?"

Suarez struck the table. "Mind what you are saying," said he, "or I shall have to show you who is captain on this ship."

"Vera goot! We will talk of eet anodder time!"

Then, turning to the girl—"Go to bed, my dear. I see you are very opset—very opset! I know weemen a leetle!"

The presence of the kidnapped girl on a deep-water ship could only cause trouble from the very first. The men who captured her had string. Kirk and Olsenborg were on deck, Anita was in the cuddy with Suarez. She made a move to go to her cabin. The Italian caught her wrists, and his face was close to hers.

On the quarter-deck Kirk stopped.

"Olsenborg! Did you hear anything?"

Both men stepped to the skylight. "Good Heavens! Look!"

Kirk leaped down the companion, wrenching back the doors. His hand fleshed to his hip. Suarez fell back behind the table. Anita sank onto the transom lockers—wide-eyed, white and rigid.

Silent as a bulldog, knife in hand, Kirk sprang straight at Suarez. He knocked up the Spaniard's revolver and two bullets smashed the skylight. The vessel rolled heavily and the men went down. Kirk's knife rose and glinted. The captain shrieked—once.

The Green River knife rose again, red and red! Suarez made curious small noises, and Kirk got up. His eyes were quite red—red as the knife he held.

Olsenborg was standing in the doorway, his revolver drawn. He put it slowly into his pocket and came forward, balancing against the yawning and sheering of the ship.

"Dod is murder, Kirk!"

Kirk stared at the corpse, turned on his heel and went on deck without a word.

As Olsenborg picked Anita up in his great arms the cold of his dripping oilskins revived her. She stirred and moaned. He put her in her bunk. She opened her eyes and shrank away, putting up her hands.

His wet oily clothes rustled, as he put out a big hand and touched her face. She caught it to her and began to cry. He ran his other hand over her hair and heaving shoulders.

"There, Miss Anita! There, then! It is all right now! So, so! Dot is better. Now I get you some tinks."

"Don't—don't leave me!"

"Eet is all right, now. You may believe me!"

He withdrew his hands and went into the cuddy to get the spirits. He forced her to drink. The ship raced on. He lighted Anita's cabin lamp and left her, shutting the door. He stared for a moment, as he buttoned his oilskins, at Suarez, whose blood was running gently back and forth across the cabin floor. Then he went on deck.

The cuddy grew still—so still that a rat came out and fed upon some crumbs of food.

"No one knows yet!" said Olsenborg in Kirk's ear. "What shall we do with it?"

"They'll have to know, though!" said Kirk. "We could never hide that blood, but it's a lifer for me—his eyes!"

There is an old man trading in an archipelago of the luxurious warm south seas who bears a marked resemblance to John Kirk. I saw Anita Duprez the other day. She is still a dancer of world fame—under a name that is my secret.

PAWNSHOP IN A SALOON FOUNDED BY KING GEORGE IV.

Monarch Lost His Money Betting at the "Cocking Main" and the Rat Hunt, So He Borrowed on His Timepiece at the "Castle" Tavern.

Explorers of historic landmarks in and around London have just brought to light one of the quaintest business combinations known to the modern investigator. Napoleon once taunted the British with being merely a nation of shopkeepers, but it is probable he never realized their enterprise in this connection had reached the limit of carrying on a gin saloon and a pledge shop under one roof.

The "Castle" tavern, on the borders of the great Smithfield market, is familiar to most Londoners, but it is doubtful if one man in a thousand knows that it is also a pledge shop empowered by Act of Parliament to lend money on personal belongings.

This unique distinction came about in a peculiar way in the time of George IV. The King was a notorious sport, with a peculiar predilection for cock-fighting and the massacre of rats by ferocious terriers. His Royal Highness proceeded one night to enjoy the fun at a place appropriately known as Hockley-in-the-Hole, then in the country, but now absorbed in modern London.

The King was always prepared to back his opinions with his money and, considering the type of characters who frequented such places in those days, it is easy to understand how quickly even a King could be relieved of all his spare cash. Finding himself stranded one night, he approached the landlord of the "Castle," and on the security of his watch and chain asked for a small loan, which was granted. By royal warrant a few days later he invested the obliging

Boniface with the right of advancing money on pledges, and from that day down to the present a pawnshop license, which in the ordinary way costs $250 a year, has been granted to the "Castle."

Over the door in the bar which gives access to the landlord's private room—and thrown into bold relief by the official document behind it—the familiar three-sphered symbol, commonly known as "the three brass balls," is a prominent ornament.

While there is no regular pawn-broking business done, such as taking in pledge the garments of the shabby genteel, or the underwear of improvident housewives, monetary accommodation is always forthcoming on articles of vertu, or jewelry which do not occupy much space or house room. To business men who desire to avoid the publicity of an ordinary pawnshop, the "Castle" is a most accommodating establishment.

The injudicious speculator can here receive a temporary loan on his watch while indulging in his favorite form of irrigation. If his friends or creditors saw him proceed in the direction of a familiar pledge counter he would be regarded as in the last stages of impecuniosity, but at the "Castle" he realizes on his timepiece without any one being the wiser except Boniface himself.

The chief business done on the premises is, of course, in connection with the liquor trade and luncheons, but there is a versatile barkeeper always on hand who can value a diamond ring while serving the latest cockney thirst destroyer.

"Content the Stomach and the Stomach Will Content You."

Nor is it enough that school girls and boys should be taught to cook; they should also learn how to eat. Few learn this at home. They are usually taught to eat silently, and not to take soup off the end of a spoon or to put the knife into the mouth; but the more important art of mastication is ignored. It is a branch of physiology and should be taught by experts in the schools.

If it were, the next generation of mothers and fathers would know that it is a crime to let their children swallow food, particularly milk and cereals and vegetables, before it has been kept for a while in the mouth to be mixed with saliva and made digestible.

If it were indelibly impressed on school-children that gluttony is a vice which defeats its own end, that by eating slowly much more pleasure can be got from one mouthful than by bolting a whole plateful, that this pleasure can be vastly increased by consciously exhaling through the nose while eating, and that those who eat in this way will escape the pangs of indigestion—if these truths were impressed on every child mind, two-thirds of the minor ills of mankind would disappear in two generations, and most of the major maladies also; for the stomach is the source of most diseases. As Thomas Walker wrote nearly a century ago, "Content the stomach and the stomach will content you."

MONEY AND MATRIMONY.

Scores of people lose their chance of being happily married through making an unnecessary obstacle of money. The importance of it is often exaggerated. Many a man hesitates to propose to a girl because of his small income. Very often much misery, misunderstanding, and tangled lives result from the silence. More unfortunate love affairs are the result of what has not been said than of spoken words. When a man has a small, sure income, and a prospect of increase, there is no legitimate reason for his not speaking of his love; no reason, for that matter, to prevent marriage. People are so desperately afraid, though, of beginning married life in a small way. They fear the sacrifices which they will be called upon to make—of the criticism to which they will be subjected. Many years of happiness are lost in this way. It is such a mistake for young people to want to start marriage in the state that their parents are ending it. To delay marriage until a "comfortable" income is available is to prove something lacking in the love.

family. At 7 o'clock every morning the Prince of Wales begins his studies, and as the Sandringham clocks are always kept half an hour ahead of the ordinary time, on the "day-light saving" principle inaugurated by the late King Edward, the young Prince's work really begins at half-past 6.

Studies till breakfast time and studies afterward up till noon keep the future King of England hard at work, unless perhaps an ideal hunting morning tempts him out for a gallop, when the time taken from studies has to be paid back later on.

The royal children are all splendid riders. Princess Mary enjoys a gallop more than any of them, and, accompanied by Prince George, is frequently seen racing across the park in the highest spirits.

OTHER ENGLISH PRINCES.

In all weathers the young Princes enjoy the outdoor life, sometimes returning home drenched to the skin and covered with mud, whereupon, after a hot bath and change into dry clothes, they are hard at their studies again.

Prince Albert has inherited his father's wonderful skill with the gun, and is the best shot of the family. He spends much of his spare time among the birds.

Prince Henry, whose health gave his parents some anxiety, is now quite well and strong again. Everybody loves him, for he is a most charming and gentle little Prince, full of consideration for others, and always busy making other people happy.

Prince George is the smiling Prince—always full of fun and on the very best terms with life. He enjoys every minute of the day. Left to himself, his best friend is his bicycle, on which he can perform some truly remarkable feats.

THRIVE IN OPEN AIR.

This open-air, active and well ordered life has a most stimulating effect on the royal children. The Prince of Wales, just budding into manhood, is developing every day, and is growing up into a very handsome young Englishman. He is thoughtful, serious and fully conscious of the great position he will one day be called upon to fill.

It is understood that no arrangements are to be made for his future studies until the return of their Majesties from India, when it is possible that he may spend some time at Cambridge, and later on continue his studies at Oxford.

A commission in a cavalry regiment, possibly the Tenth Hussars, will follow, but before that the Prince of Wales may be given an establishment and a household of his own. It is said that Park Cottage, near Sandringham Church, will become his country lodge, and York House, St. James, his London residence.

striped flannel or serge with notched collars and natty pockets.

In spite of their long popularity, one piece serge dresses are promised an even greater vogue for spring.

Leather belts, more on the girdle type, are several inches wide at the back and curve slightly to the front.

The new colors for novelty cottons are white, cream color, old lace color, champagne, ficelle, and khaki.

At the present time there is a great tendency for white collars, cuffs and revers on many of the outer garments.

Wide collarettes of chiffon or tulle are scalloped around the edge. They are used to trim the newest, smartest blouses.

One of the novelties of the spring coat is the back longer than the front, a harmonious feature with the cutaway front.

Lovely satins and cashmere and paisley designs are used for separate wraps. These are trimmed with bands of plain satin.

Lightweight serge is still popular, and cheviot in fancy weaves and stripes is one of the new fabrics for tailor makes.

While skirts remain narrow, there is no lack of variety in the novelty, and the arrangement of the gores, the new designs being extremely graceful and having unusual style.

The popular train is the extremely long pointed style, heavily weighted, or the panel attached at the waist in the back and left free from the hips down. This ends in a square train.

A type of ribbon that is thought well of for spring millinery is grosgrain. This figured quite prominently during the fall, and the early 'spring' models are already showing trimming of this ribbon.

This season considerable attention is being given to trimming the backs of coats. Some show broad braid and buttons; others, overlapping seams, and a few are made with the back exactly like the front.

Edge trimmings consisting of vines of green silk cord studded with tiny colored chiffon rose and green ribbon leaves, will be one of the prominent trimming forms for evening dresses, particularly for the younger element.

Several handsome new plaids are being shown. One of these has a background of white taffeta with widely spaced broad horizontal bars of colored satin. A narrow stripe of the satin runs parallel to and a short distance from the edge. These plaids are effective.

There is an effort being made to revive the old-fashioned gambol bound round the ankle with ribbon in the manner approved of in 1840, but as few women care to do without heels they are to be seen altered almost out of recognition with long, pointed toes and Louis heels.

The elephant never fails to excite wonder in the person who beholds him for the first time. A writer quotes the remark of a small boy who was visiting a menagerie.

The boatswain, a superior kind of Devil, who had been a pearler and mate of a labor schooner, and a deserter from the United States navy, also demanded a share. Suarez got mad, and talked of "slitting the wench's throat—ending it once for all!"

"If you do that," said Kirk, "you give the men a stronger hold than ever."

"If we have to buy off the whole crew we shall be beggared by this business!" snarled the skipper.

Olsenborg grinned with appreciation.

"Por todos Santos! Cursed be the day I ever saw the baggage!" raved Suarez.

The others laughed outright.

On deck, Anita was the cynosure of every eye—the object of remarks and grins. The crew lounged about picturesquely in their dirty, variegated clothes. Anita noticed that they all wore a belt with a curious knife whose handle was sunk half way in its sheath. She walked to the man whose paint and tar-grimed hands grasped the wheel spokes.

"What strange knives you've all got—what are they for?"

He glanced swiftly at her face and then aloft, and turned the wheel over so little to port.

"May I see it?" asked she, and put out her hand.

"Yes, bien sur, Mann'selle!" He was a Breton.

She drew out the broad blade. On its brass handle was a little brass horse's head. The back of the knife was blunt. A sawlike joggle ran half way down the five-inch blade.

The bos'un, who was keeping the watch, came over.

"That's a 'Green River Knife.' That's its name—you can see it stamped on the blade—there. All good Sheffield steel. Most deep-water sailors use 'em, and they're very handy."

Anita Duprez found life more endurable than she would have thought possible. She was friends with Kirk and Olsenborg, but her hatred of Suarez was unconcealed, and he followed her with eyes which boded no good.

All day long the gray clouds had stooped to narrow horizons, scurrying before an ever-freshening gale. The Jacqueline staggered along, washing through the rising seas and leaning to leeward like a tiny toy boat that a child pulls by

A LIBERAL OFFER

We Guarantee to Relieve Dyspepsia. If we fail the Medicine Costs Nothing.

To unquestionably prove to the people that indigestion and dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well-known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.

Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is carefully prepared so as to develop its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid. Without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The Carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store. T. B. Wallace, Napanee.

LAURIER'S NAVAL POLICY
APPROVED BY ADMIRALTY

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The insistent demands of Premier Borden's Nationalist supporters in the Commons for the fulfilment of their pre-election pledges that the late Government's naval law would be promptly repealed if the Liberals were turned out of office are not likely to be granted this year. The new Government has found, after informal consultation with the Admiralty, that the "hasty and ill-conceived legislation" of the Laurier Government is a well-considered part of a general Imperial plan, and that for Canada now summarily to back out of the agreement to which Australia, New Zealand and the Imperial Government are all parties, would be short-sighted so far as Canada is concerned and embarrassing to the Admiralty.

It is understood that some weeks ago a communication was sent to the Admiralty asking for suggestions as to the best way in which Canada could co-operate in Imperial naval defence. Coast defence works and also a direct money contribution were tentatively suggested for the consideration of the Admiralty. It is stated on good authority that the proposal for a direct contribution is not viewed favorably by the men at the head of the naval services in Britain. They feel that if Canada should make Britain a gift of ten million dollars to be used for the purchase of a Dreadnought the British Government would cut down its naval appropriation by just that amount, and the Admiralty would have gained no addition to the fighting strength at its disposal.

When asked for an alternative suggestion the British Naval authorities have pointed out that the question of Colonial aid for Imperial defence was thoroughly discussed between the authorities of the mother country, Canada and Australia, and a plan of action was agreed upon which appeared to be the best at the time and which still appears to the Admiralty as the best. This is in effect the plan which the Laurier Government gave effect to. It contemplates the creation of fleet units by Canada and Australia. Australia has gone ahead and will have its fleet unit in commission by the end of 1913. If it had not been for the change in Government the contract for the construction of the beginning of the Canadian fleet unit would have been already awarded and necessary shipbuilding yards would be well under way at St. John.

the Canadian fleet would have been already awarded and necessary shipbuilding yards would be well under way at St. John.

The suggestions as to coast defence also do not, in the opinion of the Admiralty, fulfill all the requirements of the situation, and, moreover, are as yet too vaguely outlined to warrant any very definite opinion thereon.

Thus the situation is that if the naval law were to be repealed this session the Government would find itself without any substitute to offer. Under the circumstances it has been decided to leave the whole matter over for consideration next summer. Meanwhile the present naval law will be left as it is.

A BOUNTIFUL HARVEST.

"As a man soweth, so shall he reap" and youth is the time in which he must do his sowing if the granary is not to be empty when old age overtakes him, as it surely will if he lives long enough. The making of money and the saving of money, as distinguished from the miserly love of money, should be the ambition of everyone; but it does not necessarily follow that if you make money you will have it in your old age, as many a one-time millionaire has died in the poor house. But if you take advantage of the Canadians Government Annuities system, and out of your wages, salary, or income, pay the amount fixed to be paid each week, month or year, or as otherwise arranged, provision for old age may be made with absolute certainty and at much less cost than on any other safe plan. You may lose everything else you own, but the Annuity cannot be lost or taken from you by any process of law, no matter how long you may live. Ask your Postmaster for literature on the subject, or write for the same to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, to whom all letters will be addressed free of postage.

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Liver Pills act so naturally and so easily that I scarcely know that I have taken a pill. Frequently being troubled with headache I take an Anti-Pain Pill and get immediate relief in every case."

Brantford Expositor.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught have returned to Ottawa after their visit to the United States, and are greatly pleased with the reception extended them by the American people. Up to the latest accounts there is no suspicion that their loyalty to Britain has been the least impaired by their sojourn in the land of Taft. It is only venerated patriotism which suffers from friendly contact, or friendly exchange with one's neighbors

Printer and Publisher.

The Toronto Globe has shown the courage of its convictions by refusing to pay the Postoffice Department's account for $25,754 additional postage on the extra copies sent before the last Dominion elections to short-term subscribers whose subscriptions were paid by others. The Postoffice Department has been asked to sue for the amount in dispute, but has not yet entered an action. The question is one of vital interest to the press, for in it is involved the validity of a ruling on a doubtful point given by a responsible postal official to an inquiring newspaper. Moreover, The Globe has announced that when the matter comes to trial it will insist upon a full investigation into the regulations governing short-term subscriptions, the dollar daily and co-related questions. In so doing The Globe will render real service to the Canadian press.

As Far as He Got.

One day when William M. Evarts, secretary of state under President Hayes, was a college student he was called on to read Vergil in class. He started out bravely: "Three times I strove to cast my arms around her neck, and — and" — adding lamely — "that's as far as I got, professor." "Well, Mr. Evarts," said the professor, "I think that was quite far enough."

CONFIDENCE

We Back up Our Statements with our Personal Reputation and Money.

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or

AN UNFOUGHT DUEL.

And the Reply Southey Prepared For Byron's Challenge.

Lord Byron once sent a challenge to Southey, the poet. The quarrel which led to the challenge had sprung from a severe criticism of Byron's work by the future poet laureate. It happened that the friend to whom the challenge was intrusted, Douglas Kinnaird, was too sensible to deliver it, and so the duel never got beyond the merest preliminaries. Southey nevertheless, in full expectation of the challenge, had prepared a letter to send in reply. This letter J. Roger Rees quotes in "The Pleasures of a Bookworm." It follows:

"Sir—I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of your letter and do myself the pleasure of replying to it without delay.

"In affairs of this kind the partners ought to meet upon equal terms. But to establish the equality between you and me there are three things which ought to be done, and then a fourth also becomes necessary before I can meet you on the field.

"First.—You must marry and have four children. Please be particular in having them all girls.

"Second.—You must prove that the greater part of the provision which you make for them depends upon your life, and you must be under a bond of £4,000 not to be hanged, not to commit suicide and not to be killed in a duel, which are the conditions upon which I have effected an insurance of my own life for the benefit of my wife and daughters.

"Third.—I must tell three direct falsehoods concerning you upon the hustings or in some other not less public assembly, and I shall neither be able to do this nor to meet you afterward in the manner you propose unless you can perform the fourth thing, which is:

"That you must convert me from the Christian religion.

"Till all this is accomplished our dispute must be carried on without the use of any more iron than is necessary for blackening our ink and mending our pens or any more lead than enters into the composition of the Edinburgh Review.

"I have the honor to subscribe myself, sir, yours, with all proper consideration, ROBERT SOUTHEY."

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

I can say further that this medicine has been vouchsafed according to law as complying in every detail with all requirements. It will stop rheumatism, it will stop pain and backache, it will stop too frequent desire to urinate; it will heal, soothe and strengthen. You will be better in every way for having taken it. There is not an ingredient that can injure; not one but will benefit. All that I ask is that you use it yourself so that you may be personally convinced.

Owing to the large number of requests, I have had ten thousand more copies of my medical book printed. This book is new and up to date and contains complete descriptions, symptoms, causes, effects and cures of kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. All who write for the free medicine will be sent a copy of this grand illustrated medical book—the largest ever written on these diseases for free and general distribution.

If you need medicine such as I have, if you are anxious to be cured and don't want to spend any money LOOKING for cures, write me. Read the symptoms over and let me hear from you today.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1—Pain in the back.
- 2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3—Burning or obstruction of urino.
- 4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5—Prostatic trouble.
- 6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
- 7—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
- 8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
- 9—Swelling in any part of the body.
- 10—Constipation or liver trouble.
- 11—Palpitation or gas under the heart.
- 12—Pain in the hip joint.
- 13—Pain in the neck or head.
- 14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
- 15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
- 16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
- 17—Pain and soreness in nerves.
- 18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address.

I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for annoying calls to urinate. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope, refuse to listen to anyone thereafter. Happily, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me, nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out, all of it fresh and standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms. If you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have, then write me about as follows: "Dear Dr. I notice symptoms number"—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 837 Franklin Building, Toronto, Can.

The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I will do that; I am promising to send any sufferer who writes me a box of this medicine and full directions free of charge, and I will do that.

A CHARITY CONCERT.

Gayarre Sang and Schurmann Passed the Hat in the Street.

The famous Spanish tenor, Gayarre, was once at Barcelona in company with the Impresario Schurmann. They were strolling down the Rambla and met two street mendicants, one of whom was singing while the other begged. Gayarre was touched at their wretched appearance and suggested giving them a couple of lous, but changed his mind and said that he might do better still.

"I will sing and you shall go round to collect the money. Nobody will ever have heard me sing so cheaply, and the contributions will be a charity. Let us begin at once."

No sooner said than done. The celebrated tenor asked the poor singer for his repertoire and then attacked the grand air of "La Traviata." Scarcely had the first notes been heard before a crowd began to assemble, and a whisper went round: "It is he! It is Gayarre."

The applause was tremendous, and as an encore he sang "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," finishing up with a popular Spanish song. The enthusiasm then broke all bounds, and Schurmann, having filled his own hat, had to borrow Gayarre's. The contents, amounting to a little over $185, were then poured into the hands of the astonished and grateful musicians, and the two improvised street performers had the greatest difficulty in forcing their way back to the hotel, where Gayarre remarked:

"Well, I hope you are pleased with the takings. As for me, I have never sung with so much pleasure. It is good to help others."

MODELS OF BREVITY.

Gems of Correspondence in Which There Were No Words Wasted.

A couple of Quakers hold the record for brief letters. One of them, wishing to learn if a correspondent in a distant town had any news to communicate, posted to him a sheet of paper on which only a note of interrogation was written. The reply came in the form of a blank sheet, indicating that there was nothing at all to communicate.

Actors seem to carry off the palm for brevity in letter writing. Quin had a misunderstanding with Rich, the manager of Covent Garden, which resulted in Quin's leaving in an unceremonious manner. He soon regretted the hasty action and wrote to the manager, "I am at Bath.—Quin." Rich did not think this a sufficient apology and accordingly replied, "Stay there and be hanged."

Everybody remembers the letters that passed between Samuel Foote and his mother. "Dear Sam," wrote the lady, "I am in prison for debt.—Your loving mother." Foote's answer was even shorter: "Dear Mother.—So am I."

March 19, 1790, was a notably dark day in Boston. A certain lady was induced thereby to write the following note to the famous Dr. Byles: "Dear Doctor—How do you account for this darkness?" To which the doctor simply replied, "Dear Madam—I am as much in the dark as you are."—Pearson's Weekly.

Willie Remembered.

Mother (reprovingly)—Willie, some one else may like the tender bits of celery besides you. Why do you always pick them out when the dish is passed? Willie—You said, ma, that I must never take the biggest pieces when things are passed to me.—Boston Transcript.

Presumptuous.

Raynor—Think you could improve on the works of nature, do you? Shyne—I know I could if I had the power. I'd make some kind of seed that could be planted on a bald head and grow into a crop of hair.—Chicago Tribune.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

Be Fair. Buy a sack or barrel before judging PURITY FLOUR

SOME people have attempted to judge PURITY FLOUR before knowing the facts about it—before using it. So we ask you to be fair and to buy a sack or barrel of PURITY FLOUR and give it a thorough try-out before attempting to arrive at a judgment.

Look at the beauty and loftiness of the golden-

Look at the beauty and loftiness of the golden-crusted, snowy-crumbed loaves, fit for a king. Count them and see how many more of them PURITY yields to the barrel than ordinary flour does.

Taste the creamy, flaky pie crust, and the deliciously light cakes PURITY FLOUR rewards you with. My! How they make your mouth water!

Such high-class results can only be obtained when using a flour consisting exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat berries.

And remember, that, on account of its extra strength and extra quality, PURITY FLOUR requires more water when making bread and more shortening when making pastry, than you are accustomed to use with ordinary flour.

OUR PUZZLING TONGUE.

Snags a Foreigner Strikes in Trying to Master English.

In spite of certain undeniable disadvantages the English language steadily makes headway. There are few tongues so hard to master. One foreigner who has had his troubles, but has won his way to a perfect command of the language, has presented in the Bookman some of the humors and some of the difficulties which belong to this richest of living languages.

As a boy I heard a fantastic Turkish legend which to my mind aptly illustrates the actual facts concerning the origin and formation of modern English.

After creating the first parents of each of the races, the story runs, Allah took a large piece of meat and, cutting it into slices, distributed them among all the people to serve them as tongues. For some reason the Englishman was absent when the others received their share. At last he came into the presence of his Maker and in mute humility begged him to put a tongue into his mouth. But nothing was left of the meat. So Allah was obliged to cut a little piece from the tongues of all the others, and, joining these pieces, he fashioned a tongue for the Englishman.

The orthography of the English language does not by any means contain all of a foreigner's troubles. One of the most perplexing characteristics of the English tongue is the fact that, as a rule, the same word has different meanings. My dictionary gives to the verbs see, lead, hold and draw fourteen, eighteen, nineteen and thirty-two meanings respectively. Now, for a foreigner to be able to distinguish all these various meanings is a tremendous task. The words which have only one or two meanings are comparatively few. Is it surprising that a foreigner is often puzzled by the numerous and sometimes opposite meanings of many an English word? Just as an illustration, consider the perplexity of a persevering Frenchman over the meaning of the word "fast."

"Zis horse, sair, he go queek. What you say?"

"Yes; he is a fast horse."

"Ah, pardon, monsieur, but your friend say he make fast his horse and he tie him to a post so he not go at all."

"Very true; he is made fast by being tied."

"Ah, zat cannot be. He cannot go fast. But what you call a man that keeps fast?"

"Oh, he is a good man that does not eat on fast days."

"But I have seen one bon vivant, who eat and drink and ride and do everything. Ze people say he is a bad man—he is very fast."

"True, that is called living a fast life."

"Ah, certainement. Zen all ze day of his life must be fast days."

"No, of course—"

"Eh bien. Does he eat every day?"

"Certainly he does."

"Zen how can he keep fast?"

"Why, he keeps going, to be sure."

"Vy, you tell me to stand fast when you want me to keep still and go fast when you want me to run. How can I understand?"

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER

"Fruit-a-tives" completely restored me

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Jan. 25th, 1910.
 "For many years, I suffered tortures from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. I also suffered with Constipation. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

I read in the 'Maritime Baptist' about 'Fruit-a-tives' and the cures this medicine was making and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say 'Fruit-a-tives' has entirely cured me when every other treatment failed, and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'."

EDWIN ORAM, Sr.

"Fruit-a-tives" sweetens the stomach, increases the actual quantity of gastric juice in the stomach and ensures complete digestion of all sensible food. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Rocker Rebelled.

In the early days of missions in Persia the people were naturally suspicious of the missionaries and were constantly on the lookout for something in their houses which would exert a baleful influence upon native visitors. A Persian lady, calling one day on an American missionary lady, wished to sit in a rocking chair, which was something she had never seen before. She got up into it with her feet and attempted to squat upon her heels, as she would have done upon the floor, with the result that she and the chair both took a tumble backward. Hence there went abroad a report that the missionaries kept in their houses a machine for converting people to Christianity.—Los Angeles Times.

The Only Way.

It's tough upon a bard to find there's no demand for verse. His life becomes a sordid grind. He goes from bad to worse. The thing for him to do, I wis, when thus the market goes is to disguise his verse like this and work it off as prose.—Washington Herald.

"Heavy work, severe strain and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard, the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was so fit work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got The New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $32 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

FIGHTING WITH THE TURKS

ENGLISH OFFICER PRAISES THEM AS SOLDIERS.

Arab Recruits From the Desert— The Turks Have Plenty Supplies.

Herbert Montagu, the young British officer who has been serving with the Turkish army in Tripoli, has just returned home to London. It may be remembered that in the early part of the campaign he electrified England by a telegram describing the horrors of the Italian methods of warfare and appealing for British intervention.

When the war began Mr. Montagu was a Lieutenant on probation in the Fifth Royal Fusiliers. Having violated British neutrality by fighting for the Turks Mr. Montagu disqualified himself for a commission, and on December 1 a notice appeared in the London Gazette cancelling his appointment in the Fusiliers. Mr. Montagu was inspired by so keen a sense of sympathy with the Turks that he resolved to help them. He has only come home now to recuperate after an attack of dysentery, and he hopes to rejoin the Turkish army in another week or two. In talking of his experiences Mr. Montagu says:

"I left London in October with the express purpose of serving with the Turkish forces in a war which I consider they were forced into against the conventions of civilization. I have all along felt that they were splendid fellows, and when war was declared, I made up my mind to do anything I could for them.

"Many British officers had the same feelings, too. I discussed the step I proposed taking with some of my colleagues, and I believe that between forty and sixty officers in our army set out with similar intentions to mine. But, so far as I know, I was the only English soldier to

REACH THE FRONT.

"My services were accepted by the Turkish authorities in London, and I left England actually as a Lieutenant in the Turkish army, but ostensibly to facilitate travelling, as an English journalist.

"I had no trouble until I reached Sfax. There after considerable bother and delay, the problem of how to get on was solved by the kindly offices of a trading ship captain, a Frenchman, I believe, who gave me a passage in his ship to Tripoli.

"Our passage in the small boat was a hazardous one, and at one time we were perilously near being wrecked. But we got through all right and I managed to reach the Turkish forces without any wild adventures. Here, officers being scarce, I was welcomed, and I was at once posted to a 'battalion' composed of Turks and Arabs.

"Now it is a well-known fact that generally the Arabs will not tolerate Europeans if they can help it; usually they are very antagonistic to white men. But, why I do not know, I proved to be an exception to the general rule. Not only were in the oasis round Tripoli town, and were attacking the Italians practically every day. It was all footwork, for to ride was simply to be asked to be shot. So we all went afoot, Turks and Arabs, and I never want to fight with braver men."

Mr. Montagu, who, by the way, is only 19, says that Italian spies followed him all the way home to Victoria station. "At every stopping place to Sfax, a 600 miles journey, which I did by motor,

I WAS WATCHED,

and from Sfax to London men followed me," he says. "All the way back different pairs of men have shadowed me; where one couple gave up another couple took their place.

"Once when I was resting and dining in Bengardane, one of the spies sat at an adjacent table, while from Marseilles to Paris to London two men followed me on train and boat.

"At Victoria I either shook them off or they had seen sufficient of me for the time. Anyhow, when I came away from the station after a leisurely shave and bath I saw no spies. I dare say they are still watching me closely in London, but I do not think they will try to shoot me or do anything else unpleasant yet."

Mr. Montagu is thin and pale and has lost twenty-eight pounds weight. It is evident that he made himself very popular with the Arabs, some of whose women folk presented him with a rich silk table cover for the mother of whom they had heard. An English newspaper containing an interview with Mrs. Montagu and Mr. Montagu's now famous despatch reached the young officer in the desert, and much impressed the Arabs when it was read and interpreted to them.

When Mr. Montagu was sixty miles out in the desert he was overtaken by an Arab horseman who had made the long ride to give the "white mascot" a tiny bottle of attar of desert orchids to take to his mother in England. It is said to be the rarest perfume in the world.

IS SLIPPING INTO THE SEA.

Much of England's Coast Has Been Washed Away.

England, long known as the tight little isle, is rapidly becoming loose, if we are to believe the alarming reports that come from various parts of the coast. The recent dropping of a huge slice of the Dover Cliffs into the sea is but one of many similar incidents that would lead one to believe that the total disappearance of the whole island is but a question of years.

From Dover comes the report that at least 10,000 more square yards of ground show evidence of instability, and there is serious danger of their slipping into the water. At Pakefield in Suffolk, Killysea in Yorkshire, and Borth on Cardigan bay, something approaching a panic has taken possession of the people who live near the water's edge.

For five years a royal commission on coast erosion and afforestation sat in England and made exhaustive investigations into the former subject. About a year ago the commission made some valuable sug-

TERRIBLE COST OF NAVIES

BRITAIN SPENT $221,960,000 LAST YEAR.

Equal to the Expenditure During Costly Year of Napoleonic War.

An instructive address on modern armaments with special reference to the comparative strength and cost of navies and to the results of the competition between Great Britain and Germany was given recently by Mr. F. W. Hirst, editor of the Economist, to the Manchester Statistical Society.

The cost of Britain's peace establishment last year, he said, was just about equal to the nation's whole military and naval expenditure in the most costly year of the Napoleonic wars during the death struggle of France.

Last year the naval expenditure (£44,392,000) was more than twelve millions higher than three years ago, and was just about covered by the income tax.

The figures of 1897-8 were higher than those which led to Mr. Gladstone's resignation. But if the country went back to them it would have close upon 32 millions sterling every year to return to the taxpayers. "The People's Budget" of taxes (1909) yielded, he supposed, half this amount. And after remitting all that, and returning to an income tax graduated perhaps up to a shilling on the highest incomes, the duties on tea, sugar, coffee, cocoa, and dried fruits might be unconditionally repealed and the sinking fund enlarged.

NAVAL EXPENDITURE.

An official return was issued by the admiralty last August covering the ten years 1901-2 to 1911-12. He found, comparing the first year with the last, that the naval expenditure of the great nations advanced as follows:

	Millions.	Millions
Great Britain ....	13½	up to 44
France .....	3	" 16
Russia .....	4	" 13
Germany .....	12½	" 22
Austria .....	3	" 5
Italy .....	3	" 8
United States ....	10½	" 26
Japan .....	4	" 8

Those figures made it very clear that the country had been oppressing itself with taxation to a quite unnecessary extent.

The events of the last few months had brought before the eyes of the people in the most dramatic way the horrors of modern war. They had also exposed the danger with which an unlimited expansion of armaments menaces capital and labor. The mere threat of war dried up the springs of capital and enterprise. For the first half of last year capital issued in London averaged nearly 20 millions a month; in August and September, during the Anglo-Franco-German tension, they averaged only about a million.

He supposed it had come home to every banker, merchant and manufacturer in this country that a few weeks ago some members of the that generally the Arabs will not tolerate Europeans if they can help it; usually they are very antagonistic to white men. But, why I do not know, I proved to be an exception to the general rule. Not only did they welcome me as a leader, but they actually professed to regard me as a sort of Allah sent mascot.

"I cannot say anything about the size of the force the Turks now have, but it has gone on growing from the start, and every Arab in the desert is ready to fight. Every now and then a sheik comes in with 2,000 men or so—his whole following.

THEY ARE ALL ARMED.

Most of them have rifles of some sort, and the Senoussi, who are joining in, have Mausers. Some of the Arabs have two-handed swords, left behind by the Crusaders, and some have chain armor of the same time. It is curious to see such an outfit in such a war.

"From what we read of the Italian reports of the fighting the estimates from Rome of the Italian losses are entirely unreliable, untrue. They give absurdly small losses in engagements in which I took part, and I know their losses, for we counted the dead.

"The Turks have as many men as they want, and they have enough ammunition to last for five years. They have the whole food resources of the hinterland at their disposal—meat, poultry, rice, bread, fruit, coffee—all they want. They can carry on the war forever. The one good thing the Italians have done is to use the aeroplane. They came humming over every day, and we could never get at them with our guns.

"Although nominally only a Lieutenant, I frequently found myself in command of as many as 2,000 troops at a time. I rode a horse, and my uniform was the ordinary field khaki and a fez. Exactly how many actions I took part in I cannot say. As a matter of fact we used to fight when we thought we would. We certainly had a scrap of some kind every day.

AND SOMETIMES TWO.

"While I was in Tripoli the Italians seemed to lie low most times and do nothing till we forced them to.

"With the Arabs I never had the slightest trouble. Whatever I ordered, through interpreters, they did or tried to do with an admirable discipline and cheerfulness. With the exception of a short spell, when I was down with dysentery, I was at the front from October 21 to December 21, when I left for London. I was in a hospital for some time, and when I started home I had to travel five days on horseback and I could get very little milk. The consequence was I had to eat anything I could get instead of living on milk, and it knocked me out again.

"I left Azizlia. Neshet Pasha's headquarters on December 21 and rode across the country by way of Zwara to Ben Gardani, which is the first place in Tunisia—a civilized town, where I got a motor car. There I got also some condensed milk, but at Medine I was too bad to go on, and I had to lie up for a time.

"While I was there I was put in command of the right flank. We for three years a royal commission on coast erosion and afforestation sat in England and made exhaustive investigations into the former subject. About a year ago the commission made some valuable suggestions for preventing just such accidents as that which occurred near Dover recently. One of the members of the commission takes an optimistic view of the situation.

"Although the sea is encroaching on certain parts of the coast," he says, "we need have no fear that the sea, in its fight with man for the land, will win the battle. On the whole, the coast is growing outward and much more land is being added to the country than is being lost.

"Nevertheless, at certain parts of the coast the sea is making serious inroads. At Pakefield, near Lowestoft, for instance, the village is gradually being swallowed up by the waves. There can be no doubt that the encroachment of the sea at Pakefield is due to the protective methods for keeping back the sea at Lowestoft. If the sea is held off at a certain point it is apt to 'get in behind.' Somewhere along the coast it will get its own back. It cannot be set back.

"The only way to protect the coast effectively is to protect it everywhere. But in certain parts of the country the value of the land hardly justifies such an expense."

In the last 30 years more than 3,000 acres of England's coast have slipped away. The county of Yorkshire has been the chief sufferer, losing about 800 acres. Lancashire and Suffolk have lost almost 600 acres, and Kent, Sussex and Lincolnshire have added materially to the total.

CALLS THE KAISER "WILLY."

How the German Emperor and Empress Speak of Each Other.

"The German Emperor, in absence of his consort, speaks of her as 'my wife,' says the Woman's Home Companion, 'the Empress in the home circle addresses him as 'Willy.'"

"The former alludes to his family, from the Crown Prince to the Princess, as 'my young ones'; the latter speaks of them not by title, but as 'my children'; both expressions so clearly conveying the close existing attachment.

"Very often the Emperor gives evidence at unexpected moments of the ever present thought with him of his family. At times, when they were small children, and he was being entertained at state banquets as the guest of princes or cities, he would slip bonbons into his pocket, quietly saying, 'These are for the young ones; something brought home always tastes better. I know that from experience.'"

"It is told of the Emperor that in Rome, when he was selecting a gown to take home as a present to the Empress, a relative advised as choice an elaborate creation, mainly of lace. 'Impossible,' he answered. 'With the children constantly clambering over her it would soon be in ribbons.'"

WHY?

"You look very tired, young man; are you overworked?" "I'm studying for a minister, sir." "Well, why in the world don't you let him study for himself?"

they averaged only about a million. He supposed it had come home to every banker, merchant and manufacturer in this country that a few weeks ago some members of the government were contemplating a war with the country's best customer in Europe over a diplomatic squabble in which not a single British interest was involved. Nay, he would rather say that the policy of the open door in Morocco, which Germany was pressing, was a thoroughly British policy, while that of the closed door, which France pursued, was against all British interests and traditions.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

The estimates were being prepared for another budget. All the armament interests would soon be clamoring for more money.

The Armor Plate Press would soon revive its annual scares, undertaken for business purposes in February and March. The same influences would be at work in Germany.

"We are at the parting of the ways," concluded Mr. Hirst. "Shall we go on with unlimited competition, or shall we come to a friendly business understanding and adopt a proportionate limitation of navies? Let us open our eyes to the facts. We are spending the whole produce of the income tax on the navy. It is now costing 44 millions a year. Naval experts last year predicted and hoped that it would soon be 60 millions. In the last three years Germany has added three millions, and we have added 12 millions. If we do the same in the next three years naval estimates will be 56 millions. What will the income tax be?"

"I submit that we have reached a point at which there must be either mutual limitation or definite daily preparations for a ruinous war—a ruinous war about nothing at all—a war out of which the cleverest man in this room could find no national advantages—a war which would send consols below 60—which might end in doubling the national debt and throwing half the population out of employment."

LITTLE PU YI.

The Daily Life of the Boy Emperor of China.

In European countries nowadays a little prince is rarely either so indulged or so restricted that he may not grow up normally, happily and healthily, a child like other children. In the Orient, his lot is less fortunate. He is likely to be both spoiled and oppressed. The Paris Figaro has recently given an account of the daily life of the boy Emperor of China, now nearly six years old, which, entertaining as it is, does not inspire envy.

Pu Yi, the son of Heaven, whose palace name is Wan-Sui-Yeh, Lord of Ten Thousand Years, is waked at six o'clock every morning by the singing of a band of slave musicians. The finest singer begins with a low chant, in which the others gradually join, until it swells to a rolling chorus, filling the chamber. When the little fellow's lids begin to flutter open, the musicians, with measured step, slowly retire backward, until their voices sink into silence. If Pu Yi wakes smiling, they are rewarded; if, unfortunately, he should wake cross or in tears, they are severely punished.

The next great affair of state is to get him dressed. Each garment is in the custody of a special official; and after these ten dignitaries have got him into his clothes, he must be carried for inspection and approval to the Princess Yehonala, who has in her keeping the precious button denoting his rank. During the entire toilet every one kneels.

Breakfast comes next. Pu Yi's diet is, however, simple—for an amusing reason. Imperial etiquette requires that he be given anything he may ask for; the cook, steward or chamberlain who cannot produce what he demanded must be immediately punished. Therefore, it is manifestly convenient that he should become acquainted only with such foods as may be readily procured at all seasons. The whole palace was upset not long ago, when his small majesty unexpectedly demanded cocoanut cake—an Occidental delicacy which had been once offered him by a lady of the German embassy. There was no cocoanut cake in the imperial palace, nor was there anyone who knew how to make it. The high official who was responsible avoided disgrace by an urgent appeal to the German ambassador, who, good-naturedly, roused his entire kitchen staff in the middle of the night, and set them to making and baking the cocoanut-cake which the small boy had so inconveniently remembered.

The little Emperor to whom playmates are not permitted, often vents his spirits in prankish tricks upon the dignitaries and court officers who attend him. He takes advantage often of the etiquette which bids them follow wherever he may go, and delights in dashing into a flooded courtyard after a rain, in order to see the gorgeously robed mandarins and princes come splashing obediently after.

But if he is a prankish, and sometimes a peevish little boy, he is an attractive one, too; and he has a pretty fashion of singing to himself. Often he will sing all through his meals; and every night, at eight o'clock, when he goes to bed with his favorite toy, a mechanical train of cars, huggled tight in his arms, he sings himself easily to sleep.

HOW THE EARTH GROWS.

Probably 150,000,000 of meteors fall on the earth every day, and nothing whatever leaves it. Consequently, it is growing in size. Some of these bodies are so small that ten thousand of them would weigh only a pound; others are immense masses of stone. The largest meteor actually seen falling weighed 500lb., but one was found in Mexico weighing 16 tons; and Peary brought a meteor from Greenland of the enormous weight of 70 tons. It is said that the average weight of all meteors is only one grain; so that probably, including aerolites, about ten tons' weight are added daily to the earth. This is 3,560 tons per annum, and since the year 1 A.D. the earth has increased by about seven million tons. At this rate it would take ten thousand million years to add one inch of thickness all over the globe. A meteor travels at the rate of 100,000 miles an hour, giving out a continuous roar when near the earth, and sometimes exploding with a noise that can be heard 40 miles. From shooting stars no sound is heard. They are only a little cloud of dust and gas. But as 7,000,000,000 come to earth yearly, they also increase its weight.

"WILL YOU MARRY ME?"

Among the aboriginal blacks of Australia, courtship as the precursor of marriage is unknown. When a young warrior is desirous of procuring a wife, he generally obtains one by giving in exchange for her a sister or some other female relative of his own; but if there should happen to be no eligible damsel disengaged in the tribe to which he belongs, then he hovers around the encampment of some other blacks until he gets an opportunity of seizing one of their leubras, whom perhaps he has seen and admired when attending one of the corrobories. His mode of paying his addresses is simple and efficacious. With a blow of a war-club, he stuns the object of his "affections," and, as she recovers her senses, brings her home to his own gunyah in triumph.

A JOKE ON SERVICE.

Some time ago a British Columbian wrote a book of verse entitled "Derby Day in the Yukon," by Yukon Bill. The real name of the author did not appear, but whoever it was signed the name, "M. Markwell." In writing to the George H. Doran Company of New York, who published the book; and the Doran people wrote back to "M. Markwell, Esq."

When the book came out, Robert W. Service, the famous Yukon poet, received a copy from the publishers, and when in New York some time afterwards he sent this letter of appreciation to the head of the firm:

"Dear Sir: Shortly before leaving Dawson I received your book, Mr. R. W. Service.

"Derby Day in the Yukon," and beg to thank you for your kindness in sending it to me. I thought the book was bully good stuff and quite true of the Land God Forgot. I showed it among my friends, and much curiosity was expressed as to the identity of Yukon Bill. However, all agreed that the atmosphere, expression, and tone were the real thing, and that he is assuredly a Sourdough of an early vintage.

"Needless to say, I was immensely flattered at the lines addressed to myself. I thank the writer from the bottom of my heart and wish him all prosperity and success. I will write no more Yukon verse, so he has a clear field. In conclusion, I wish again to express my appreciation of his veracious and virile verses, and thank him for the genuine pleasure they gave me."

Sincerely yours,

"ROBERT SERVICE."

It now turns out that the book was written by a woman. And she had never seen the Yukon!

A TIDE OF TRAGEDY.

At five o'clock in the afternoon people gather on the causeway that connects Mount St. Michael with the coast of Normandy, to watch the coming of the tide, one of the sights of the world. So far as the eye can reach stretches the grey sand, silent, empty. Seven miles and a half lie between the ocean and the rock. Presently a strange murmur pervades the air; it seems to come from nowhere, and yet to be everywhere. And then far on the horizon lifts a line of white. Every moment it draws nearer, and the sound in the air swells louder; and then, with astonishing speed, comes up the line of crested sea, and in a moment, where it reaches the sands, there is but a space of swirling water. And on the wave ride in the fishing-boats that have been out to sea. Many a tragedy has been caused by the swift inrush of this true tidal wave, for, save along narrow paths, the bottom of this vast, strange bay is but quicksand.

WALKED ON RAZOR'S BLADE.

Delicate Sense of Touch in the Snail.

"When photographing the snail for this article," writes Professor Ward, in the Strand Magazine, "I was surprised at the fact that even the rough-cut edge of a sheet of glass presented no difficulties to its locomotion; its even pace was continued in spite of the fact that the sharp corner appeared to be penetrating its body. There, too, we have exhibited the animal's delicate sense of touch, and this led me to make a further experiment.

"After I had placed the snail on the butt of the razor's blade, it slowly moved along the back of the blade, and then climbed completely over the sharp edge, the razor being in excellent condition. As the successive waves brought the forefront of its foot near the edge of the blade its head was held low down, and the lower and shorter pair of feelers nearly touched the blade, as if feeling the way.

"At the moment when the sharp edge was reached, the small feelers were fully extended toward it, and just at the very instant when I expected to see them cut off they were both instantly retracted. They were little more than a hair's breadth away; and, though the lower feelers possess no eyes yet, by their sudden movement I was quite convinced that the snail at that instant recognized danger. Still the foot travelled on, and slowly the snail dragged its whole weight of exactly 1½ ounces over the edge, later moving toward the butt and remaining perfectly unharmed. The species experimented with was the Roman or edible kind, which accounts for its comparatively large weight, it being the largest of British snails."

ENGLISH WORE PIGTAILS.

As Late as 1858 Queues Were to be Seen in England.

The edict sanctioning the abolition of the pigtail reminds us that it is not so very long since the pigtail disappeared, not merely from the army and navy, but even from everyday civilian life in England. Waistlong pigtails were the fashionable wear in England about 1740 and before that the bag wig had been adorned with a pigtail looped up in a black silk bag.

As late as 1858 an old gentleman was seen on Cheapside with his grey hair tied behind in a short queue, and even to-day we can find a relic of the pigtail, for the three pieces of black velvet on the dress tunics of officers in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers are the remains of the ribbon with which the queue was tied.—London Chronicle.

YOUTHFUL AUTOCRAT.

Heir to Russia's Throne Is a Spoiled Child.

The Czarevitch Alexis is 7 years old. As he has been repeatedly told from the time he was able to understand that he will be the absolute master of all the Russias and reign as an autocrat over 125,000,000 of subjects he has shown himself to be a terribly spoiled child, says a French paper.

His father, a year after his birth, named him hetman of the Cossacks. He has taken his title quite seriously and treats every one around him with military rigor. He tyrannizes over his younger sisters, the Grand Duchesses Marie and Anastasia, and they tremble before him. The eldest sister, the Grand Duchess Olga, 16 years old, alone dares to oppose him.

Recently when she had refused to gratify one of his caprices the Czarevitch became angry and struck her. But the Grand Duchess seized him and administered to the future master of all the Russias a good beating.

The Czar, who was in an adjoining room, and heard the cries of rage and pain raised by his heir, came upon the scene and could establish peace only by declaring that the Grand Duchess Olga should be imprisoned for the crime of lese majeste, whereupon the hetman of the Cossacks declared himself satisfied.

THE BEST BREAD.

A committee of the English Local Government Board has recently completed a study of the food value of bread. They find that whole-wheat bread is less nutritious than bread made from ordinary white flour. The bran, or outer coating of the wheat grains, which gives the dark color to whole-wheat flour, is not only indigestible in itself, but interferes somewhat with the digestion of other food substances. The committee also studied the effect of bread upon the teeth. Here, too, their findings run counter to the general impression that the use of coarse bread has a beneficial effect peculiar to it. The report states that the difference in the effects produced upon the teeth by different kinds of bread is too slight to be noticed.

GRAIN IN BAD CONDITION

Heavy Damage Reported in the West Owing to Lack of Storage Facilities

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Wet grain in the west is declared to be a serious feature just now. Hundreds of thousands of bushels have been exposed to the weather all the winter for want of storage facilities. At Verigin, Sask., in one pile, is 500,000 bushels covered with snow. This belongs to the Doukhobors. "It is not a question," said a grain man on Wednesday, "of the ruin of an individual. It is a question of the ruin of whole districts. We are on the verge of the worst calamity which has ever happened in western Canada. From fifteen to twenty per cent of the cars of grain which have come into Winnipeg have been wet, damp or tough. The same proportion of the grain in the western country still undelivered must be in a similar condition. A few days of wet weather would destroy the value of every bushel of this grain. Today I heard of one elevator with 25,000 bushels which had already all gone bad. The same thing may happen in a month to 10,000,000 bushels of wheat, and to similar quantities of flax, oats and barley." STORING GRAIN IN BOATS. To alleviate grain congestion at the head of the lakes, it was learned at Winnipeg on Thursday from reliable authority that ice three feet thick is being chopped out of elevator approaches at Fort William and that boats are being run up to the elevator spouts and loaded at an added cost of $2,000 per vessel. There are forty vessels in the bay, and it is estimated that they will hold approximately four million bushels of grain. Grain is, however, coming in too heavily and it will be spring before congestion abates to any noticeable extent. Replying to morning stories to the effect that 13,000,000 bushels of wheat lay in western Canada at the present time, W. B. Lanigan, assistant traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said that he did not believe there was such a quantity.

LONE MAN HELD UP 30 PEOPLE

Daring Work of Unmasked Bandit in Vancouver.

A despatch from Vancouver, B. C., says: The most spectacular and the boldest hold-up in the city's recent wave of crime occurred shortly after 9 o'clock on Thursday night when a lone bandit armed, but unmasked, entered McIntyre's cafe in Seymour street, one of the largest in the city, and flourished his revolver at the heads of thirty men and women seated at the tables. The bandit had apparently awaited his opportunity, which came when the cashier was called to the telephone. He dashed through the front door, made his haul in a few moments and disappeared.

An order in Council has been issued providing for compensation to the wives and families of seamen who lose their lives in the service of the Canadian navy.

KING AND QUEEN RETURN.

Arrived at Portsmouth Sunday, 14 Hours Ahead of Time.

A despatch from London says: King George and Queen Mary arrived at Portsmouth on Sunday, 14 hours ahead of schedule time, on their return from the trip to Delhi, where his Majesty was crowned as Emperor of India. The steamer yacht Medina, with the Royal party on board, arrived at Spithead at 10 o'clock in the morning in a blinding snow storm. It was known that the steamship would be in ahead of time, but she was not expected before the evening and there was no salute from the shore batteries, which were unprepared for her. Queen-Mother Alexandra and other members of the Royal family went to Portsmouth in the evening, to meet the King and Queen.

The police census gave Toronto's population as 425,407.

QUAKES IN ALASKA.

Shocks Felt Far Into the Interior of Country.

A despatch from Cordova, Alaska, says: Heavy earthquake shocks were felt on Wednesday throughout South-western Alaska and far into the interior. The tremors were felt on the coast as far west as Seward. Fairbanks, 350 miles inland, reports that it was severe in the Tanana Valley. Four shocks were felt at Cordova, the first and most severe coming at 11.12 o'clock, in the morning. Three lighter shocks followed at intervals of about an hour.

BANK MESSENGER ROBBED.

Another Daring Theft on Paris Street in Daylight.

A despatch from Paris, France, says: Another attack upon a bank messenger took place on Wednesday, and the robber escaped with about $30,000. The bank messenger or garcon de recette, as he is known here, was making his way along the Passage Mesly at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning when a man approached him. After a short struggle the aggressor threw pepper into the eyes of the messenger. He then pinned his arms behind his back and threw him to the pavement. He extracted a case of notes to the value of 150,000 francs from the messenger's pocket. An effort is being made to prevent further attacks upon these messengers.

THE CARELESS GROCER

Blundered, and Great Good Came of It.

A careless grocer left the wrong package at a Michigan home one day and thereby brought a great blessing to the household. "Two years ago I was a sufferer from stomach trouble, so acute that the effort to digest ordinary food gave me great pain, and brought on a condition of such extreme nervousness that I could not be left alone. I thought I should certainly become insane. I was so reduced in flesh that I was little better than a living skeleton. The doctors failed to give me relief and I despaired of recovery. "One day our groceryman left a package of Grape-Nuts food by mistake, so I tried some for dinner. I was surprised to find that it satisfied my appetite and gave me no distress whatever. The next meal I ate of it again, and to be brief, I have lived for the past year almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. It has proved to be a most healthful and appetizing food, perfectly adapted to the requirements of my system. A despatch from Ottawa says: Doukhobor cause, accompanies them. Peter Verigin cannot himself speak English, but through Reibin, who acted as interpreter, he said: "Some two thousand of our people have immigrated to British Columbia and have bought 12,000 acres near Nelson, B.C., where they have planted hundreds of fruit trees. We intend when we go to British Columbia to plant five thousand acres with fruit. We are all going to move from Saskatchewan to British Columbia; that is what we want to see the Government about. There are almost eight thousand of us, and we will go into the fruit business near the coast and supply all western Canada. More Doukhobors are coming over from Europe to join us."

PROFITABLE POWER BONDS

Many of Canada's shrewdest and best informed investors have bought Western Canada Power Co. Bonds. At their present price of 90 they pay over 5½%. The plant is located 35 miles from the growing cities of Vancouver and New Westminster, B.C. and has secured perpetual water rights from government. Can develop 100,000 H.P. as demand increases and should earn this year three times bond interest. Engineer in charge, R. F. Hayward successfully constructed Mexican Light Heat & Power Co. In addition to high rate of interest bonds should appreciate considerably in next year. Directorate includes Sir Max Aitken; C. H. Cahan; A. R. Doble, Secretary Bank of Montreal; Jno. Hendry; Wm. #### British Admiralty Issues a Significant Call.

A despatch from London says: An unexpected call has been made on Thursday on all the shipbuilders on the list of construction for the British navy to send in tenders for a new fleet of torpedo-boat destroyers of the most up-to-date type. Each of the firms has been invited to tender for three boats. No provision for the construction of these craft was made in this year's naval estimates, but prominent naval men have for a long time complained of the lack in the British navy of fast sea-going torpedo-boat destroyers capable of coping with modern cruisers.

HOSTLER BURNED ALIVE.

Clothes Caught Fire While Alone in Stratford Hotel Stables.

A despatch from Stratford says: In a small fire of mysterious origin at the City Hotel stables on Thursday afternoon, Robert McEwen, one of the hostlers, lost his life. In some manner his clothes caught fire while he was alone in the barn, through which he ran, blazing from head to foot, to fall into the arms of his father, who had just come out of the hotel, and succumb. Deceased, who was forty-five years of age and of splendid physique, was burned almost to a crisp. The stable was very little damaged, and the horses, seventeen in number, were all gotten out safely.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

RAILROAD EQUIPMENT BONDS ARE EVEN SAFER THAN RAILROAD MORTGAGE BONDS.

During Bad Times of Railroad Financing No Equipment Bondholder Has Lost Principal or Interest—Equipment Movable and Can Be Sold to Other Companies—Railroads Cannot Operate Without Cars—Courts Have Ruled to Class Them with Preferred Claims Ahead of Mortgage Bonds.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

(By "Investor.")

It is evident from what was said last week that equipment bonds differ in two important respects from all other classes of railroad issues. First, the title to the property which secures the bonds does not vest in the railroad (but with a trustee); and secondly, the property is movable and not fixed in any one locality. As a result of these two points, the holders of equipment bonds are in a decidedly more advantageous position than the holders of the mortgage bonds in the event of the railroad becoming bankrupt.

"If a railroad is unable to meet its interest charges," writes an authority, "the mortgage bondholders can rarely do better than have a receiver appointed who will operate the railroad in their interest; but if, with honest and efficient management, the railroad cannot be made to earn its interest charges, the mortgage bondholders usually have to consent to the scaling of their bonds to a point where the railroad can operate upon a paying basis."

With the holders of equipment bonds the case is quite different. If the receiver defaults upon their bonds they have only to direct the trustee to enter upon possession of the equipment and sell it or lease it to some other railroad. (It will be remembered that the equipment is held by a trustee and leased to the railroad until such time as it has been fully paid for, i.e., until the last equipment bond secured on that particular lot of equipment has been redeemed. Then the railroad owns it outright and not until then does it own any part thereof.)

The knowledge that the bondholders have this power has made the instances where it became necessary to use it very few indeed. The reasons are almost obvious.

The equipment of a railroad is essential to its operation. Rails and terminals are merely the shop as it were, the equipment constitutes the supply of tools. If, therefore, the receiver were deprived of the equipment it would be utterly impossible to satisfy the road's creditors, as the road couldn't be operated.

The result of this has been that in the States (there has so far been no occasion in Canada to adjudicate on this matter) the courts, both State and Federal, have ruled that the necessary equipment of a bankrupt railroad must be preserved. They have moreover "placed the charges for principal and interest of equipment obligations," writes Mr. Henry, of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, "upon an equality with charges for wages, materials, and other operating expenses and in priority to interest of even first mortgage bonds."

As a result, equipment bonds have made a remarkable record during times of stress in railroad circles. Between the years 1888 and 1905 took place the principal railroad troubles in the States. A careful search has been made of all reorganizations during that period and it was discovered that "sixteen different railroads, aggregating nearly one hundred thousand miles, and located in widely different parts of the country had out-

TRAGEDY AT NIAGARA.

Three People Drowned When Ice Bridge Gave Way.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: The lives of one woman and two men who had ventured to cross the river on Sunday, on the ice bridge were lost in the tumult of waters in the Whirlpool Rapids, two miles below the falls, to which point they had drifted on the ice. Thousands witnessed the accident, but were helpless to render aid, although every effort was made. The victims were:—Eldridge Staunton, secretary-treasurer of the O. B. Staunton and Wilson Co., stationers, 50 Yonge Street, Toronto. Mrs. Eldridge Staunton. Burrell Hecock, aged 17, of East 117th Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

DIED DEATHS OF HEROES.

Somewhere deep in the great whirlpool sleeps Mr. Staunton, who twice put aside chances of rescue in order to remain with his terror-stricken wife, and who, in the shadow of death, just as the break occurred in the rapids, spurred assistance to himself, and attempted to bind about the woman's body a rope dangling from the lower steel arch bridge. And the lad, Burrell Hecock, was cast in the same mould. The man and woman started first towards the American shore, but they were stopped by a lane of open water. Back they ran again towards the Canadian side, turned about and made for the American side. When hardly more than 50 yards from the rocky shore the woman fell on her face, utterly exhausted.

"I can't go on; I can't go on!" she cried. "Let us die here!"

And all the time the great field of ice, driven onward by a southwest gale and pressed by a jam broken free from its anchorage near the base of the Horseshoe Falls, went on breasting the terrible outrush of the Niagara Falls Power Company's tunnel outflow, the mightiest current in all the river, without being broken.

FOURTEEN MEN DROWNED

A Submarine Collided Off Portsmouth With Gunboat Hazard

A despatch from Portsmouth says: The total loss on Friday morning of the British submarine "A 3," with the whole of her crew, after collision with the gunboat Hazard, adds another to the long list of similar accidents which have in recent years thrown the British navy and nation into mourning. The crew of eleven men on board the little vessel, which is one of the older class, was composed of volunteers from the men of the fleet, as is the case with the compliments of all submarines. Besides the regular crew of ten men and a lieutenant who were on board the "A 3" the Admiralty states three other lieutenants were on the vessel going through a course of instruction and were in the submarine when she sank, making a total of 14 deaths. The submarine "A 3," which went out of the harbor on Friday morning to carry out a series of diving and torpedo exercises, sank like a stone immediately after her collision. The submarine lies on the Princess Shoal, almost on the same spot where the submarine "A 1" was lost, with all hands, on March 18, 1910. Torpedo practice had been in progress for some time and the submarine "A 3" was partially submerged when she came in to collision.

to get her to her feet again, and tried to drag her along the ice, calling for assistance to Roth and Hecock, who were nearest. Hecock turned back to the couple and helped the woman. This cost him his life.

LAST CHANCE FAILED.

There was still another chance—the rope that was dropped from the lower steel arch bridge by the Niagara Avenue firemen. As the floe went into Swift Drift, the man caught it and grimly held on. He was given slack, and tried to wind the rope about the woman's waist. He fumbled in his agony of effort, as if his hands were numb. The rush of the ice in the stream was overpowering. When he could not tie the rope about the woman he let it go. There apparently was no thought of himself. He raised the woman to her feet, kissed her, and clasped her in his arms. The woman then sank to her knees. The man knelt beside her, his arms clasped close about her. So they went to their death. The ice held intact until it struck the great wave. There it was shivered; there the gallant man and the woman at his side disappeared from view.

Ontario succession duties for January show an increase.

The Traders Bank of Canada

years 1888 and 1905 took place the principal railroad troubles in the States. A careful search has been made of all reorganizations during that period and it was discovered that "sixteen" different railroads, aggregating nearly one hundred thousand miles, and located in widely different parts of the country had outstanding equipment bonds at the time of default. IN EVERY CASE THE PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST OF EQUIPMENT BONDS WERE PAID IN FULL WHILE ALL OTHER SECURITIES, WITH A FEW EXCEPTIONS, WERE REDUCED IN RATE OR AMOUNT OR BOTH. Two of these railroads, it is said, offered to the holders of equipment bonds the option of an advantageous exchange of securities, which amounted to more than payment in full.

In security, therefore, the facts herein set forth, justify the conclusion that equipment bonds possess security equal or superior to that of any other form of railroad bonds.

So much for safety of principal and interest.

INCREASE IN CUSTOMS.

Receipts for January Reached Total of $6,598,193.84.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Customs receipts for the month of January show an increase of over three quarters of a million as compared with the revenues for the corresponding period of the last fiscal year. The receipts totalled $6,598,193.84 as against $5,783,822.68, an increase of $814,371.16. The increase for the ten months amounts to the gratifying sum of $11,359,944.17, the figures being for 1911-12, $70,268,252.68, and for 1910-11, $58,908,307.91.

United States immigration officials state that a large number of Chinese have been smuggled into Detroit over the ice bridge from Canada.

Ontario succession duties for January show an increase.

Proceedings of the Twenty-Seventh Annual General Meeting.

The Twenty-Seventh Annual Meeting was held at noon on Tuesday, the 23rd of January, 1912.

Mr. C. D. Warren, the President, having taken the chair, the General Manager, Mr. Stuart Strathy, was requested to act as Secretary of the Meeting. On motion, Messrs. E. Galley and J. K. Niven were appointed Scrutineers. The minutes of the last Annual Meeting were taken as read.

DIRECTORS' REPORT

The Directors have much pleasure in submitting their Twenty-seventh Annual Report and balance sheet of the affairs of the Bank, as of the 30th December, 1911, together with Profit and Loss Account, showing the result of the operations of the Bank for the year which ended that day. The net profits of the Bank, after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, amount to $601,133.78, being 13.89 per cent. on the paid-up capital of the Bank, which has been applied as follows:

The net profits for the twelve months, after making provision for bad and doubtful debts, and reserving accrued interest, amount to $601,133.78.
Balance at credit of Profit and Loss last year 153,434.79
$754,568.57

Appropriated as follows, viz:

Dividend No. 60, quarterly, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum $ 87,090.00
Dividend No. 61, quarterly, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum 87,090.00
Dividend No. 62, quarterly, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum 87,090.00
Dividend No. 63, quarterly, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum 87,090.00
Transferred to Rest Account 200,000.00
Written off Bank Furniture 15,000.00
Transferred to Officers' Guarantee Fund 5,000.00
Transferred to Officers' Pension Fund 5,000.00
Balance at credit of Profit and Loss, new account 181,208.57
$754,568.57

You will observe $200,000 has been added to Rest Account. The Rest Account is now $2,500,000, or about 58 per cent. of the subscribed and paid-up capital of the Bank.

The business of the Bank continues to grow most satisfactorily, as the comparative statement submitted shows. The deposits during the year have increased $4,193,898.29, and the circulation has increased $583,595.

The Head Office and all the Branches have been carefully inspected during the year, and a full report of each office brought in review before your Directors, and, in addition to these inspections, a Committee of the Directors, other than the officers, and composed of Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., Mr. W. J. Sheppard, Mr. C. S. Wilcox, and Mr. H. S. Strathy, was appointed to examine and appraise all the securities held at the Head Office, which they did, and reported to the Board that they are as represented to it.

The increase in Bank premises is partly accounted for by discharging the encumbrances which existed at the time of the purchase of Vancouver and Winnipeg properties, and partly by the purchase of the property immediately east of your Head Office Building, which was acquired at a reasonable figure, a portion of which will be used for the purposes of the Bank. This purchase will be of great advantage in protecting the lighting of the east side of the Head Office Building. Your Bank premises now comprise 34 separate buildings.

The Directors have much pleasure in testifying to the good work performed by the Staff during the period under review.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CHAS. D. WARREN, President.

The General Manager read the General Statement of the Bank, as of 30th of December, 1911, as follows:

Death of an Old Resident.

William Lewis Bennett, a citizen of Napanee for over forty years, a man with an uncommonly clean and high reputation, a gentleman in every sense of the word, passed away on Friday last at his residence on Donald street, after a brief but painful illness. He was an octogenarian of eighty-five years and a few days. Mr. Bennett had enjoyed almost uninterrupted good health up to about a year ago, when he suffered from a slight stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered his former vigor. The late Mr. Bennett was a member and a valued official of Trinity Methodist Church for a long number of years. He leaves to mourn a widow and family of eight children, five sons and three daughters widely scattered. Richard W. Bennett, in Indianapolis, Ind., Lewis H. at present at home, Jno. W. at Calgary, Alta., Albert E. in Pentecost, B. C., George in Winnipeg, Man. The daughters are Mrs. B. L. Kennedy, Toronto, Mrs. Dennis Daly, Napanee, and Mrs. Ralph L. Hodgson, Grand Forks, B. C. The funeral took place on Monday from his late residence to Riverside Cemetery. Many beautiful floral offerings were placed on the casket by relatives and friends.

Installation of Officers.

Thursday evening of last week a most pleasant time was spent by the members of Argyll Lodge, No. 212 and Napanee Lodge No. 86, I. O. O. F., it being the occasion of a joint installation of the officers of the two lodges by District Deputy Grand Master, R. J. Ross, of Brighton. The members of Argyll Lodge exemplified the first degree, after which the installation services were proceeded with. At the conclusion of the latter about seventy-five sat down to a most sumptuous repast provided by the members of the Argyll lodge, under the able supervision of Bro. A. C. Caton. After all had done ample justice to the good things provided, a pleasant hour was spent by listening to short, but able addresses by visiting brethren and some local orators. 2 IN 1 FAMILY

Here is one of the many cases in which several members of one family have benefited from the household box of Zam-Buk. Col. Sgt. Louis Elliott, 3rd Co., 46th Battalion, Peterboro, Ont., says: "The lower part of my face, cheek and chin broke out in small red pimples, which later festered and broke, forming nasty sores and dry scabs. The itching set up by these eruptions and sores was terrible, and seemed far worse during the night. All kinds of soaps, washes and ointments were tried in the vain attempt to get relief, even to bathing with carbolic acid and water. Finally I thought of Zam-Buk and straightway procured a box at the drug store. One night's application brought great relief from the intense itching, and as I kept on applying this balm daily, the inflammation was soon drawn out, and in less than a week's time the sores were thoroughly healed and every scab banished."

Mrs. Elliott, 139 Sherbrooke St., Peterboro, telling of Zam-Buk's effect on her younger son Walter, says: "He slipped and caused a wound on his right hip, which developed into a running sore. From this smaller sores spread until his lower limbs were covered with ulcers. These proved very alarming and I feared blood-poisoning! I began the Zam-Buk treatment, and it really seemed to aid like magic! In a remarkably short space of time the raw running sores were all healed. I am very grateful indeed for his cure, and I strongly recommend all mothers to keep Zam-Buk always handy."

WHAT ZAM-BUG WILL CURE.

Zam-Buk will be found a cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, sculp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. ## A Sign of the Times

PEOPLE are becoming very careful about what they eat and drink—

The preference for goods in sealed packages—especially in food stuffs—is now quite definite and becoming more so every day.

We must frankly admit that there are sound reasons for this preference. Food stuffs cannot be exposed to varying atmospheric conditions without losing both strength and flavor.

Tea—of all articles of everyday diet (excepting coffee, perhaps) needs protection most, and best merchants have been quick to appreciate the fact. So much is this the case that the selling of loose Tea in bulk will soon be a thing of the past.

RED ROSE TEA reaches you with all its virginal flavor, strength and purity—

—It is sealed in air-tight packages—dust and damp-proof—

RED ROSE is a blend of the best Indian and Ceylon Teas.

—The former assures generous strength and richness—the latter that coaxing, delicate flavor, Qualities for which Red Rose Tea is famed.

Ask your Grocer for the 40c. package of Red Rose and you'll get better Tea—Tea that spends farther—for the same money.

You want "Good" Tea—well,

"Red Rose Tea is Good Tea"

In Buying a Monument.

Don't for one moment think that size or weight are the sole consideration. Perfection as to color, cutting and brilliancy determines the price more than anything else. Only monuments of the highest quality are admitted to our stock—and no where else can as great price savings be made. The Napanee Marble and Granite Works.

"The Thief".
The original New York production of "The Thief" will be seen intact when that great sensation is presented for the first time at the Brisco opera house, on Wednesday evening, February 14th. This production is claimed to be the greatest drama ever offered in Canada or abroad. Every wife, every husband, every lover, every sweetheart in every city in the country should see "The Thief", which parades the endeavors of a wife to please her husband and to hold his love by stealing large sums of money with which to buy hats and gowns. The phenomenal success, "The Thief," is not a problem play, as that term is known, but it lays bare certain truths of married life which pierces the heart with their human appeal. Wedded couples on small incomes, as well as the wealthy, should see "The Thief" which teaches that it is better to be content with our portion than covet the frills and finery of our neighbors.

NEDA COUGH RELIEF guaranteed to cure a cough. All you have to do if you are not satisfied is to return the coupon and get your money. Jessop's, Napanee.

Ernie Marks Stock Co.
The Ernie Marks Stock Company opened a week's engagement at The Brisco Opera House Monday evening to a large and well pleased audience, presenting the 4 act Comedy Drama, "Reaping the Whirlwind". The Marks Bros. attractions have visited Napanee for several years, but the general verdict is that Ernie Marks carries the best company, playing at popular prices, that have appeared here in several seasons. Ernie Marks as a comedian is very clever and keeps the audience in a constant uproar of laughter. He is supported by a company of dramatic players of rare merit which includes, H. Webb Chamberlain, Wesley Barney, Walter DeLuna, Arthur Hebert, Milburn Murray, Jessie Lyons, Lida Gardner, and Louise DeLuna. The Vaudeville Specialties that Ernie carries are of the highest class obtainable which include Franklin A. Brooks, Monologist and Topical Singer who has made a decided hit with his specialty each night he has appeared, also DeLuna and DeLuna, the Versatile Sketch artists who have become great favorites, and Miss Lida Gardner who also pleases greatly with her character singing. Mr. Marks carries his own Musical Directress, Marie R. Brooks who is an adept at the Piano and entertains the audience with high class selections, the plays are all new to the Theatre going public this season and all wishing to spend an evening of enjoyment should not miss attending The Marks Company at the Opera House the balance of the week.

Hennequin's Infant Tablets

Save Babies' Lives. For Babies and Small Children. (Made in France.)

Dr. Hennequin's Infant Tablets saved our little girl's life. Three doctors said she could not live. The Tablets cured her.—Mr. E. R. McBride, Napanee, Ont.

My baby was so weak from sickness that he could hardly walk. We thought he would die. We could find nothing to help him. I was given a sample package of three Hennequin Tablets; we used them; I saw a change at once. We secured the Tablets and our baby improved every day, and is now a bright, fat, good natured boy; you could not believe he was the same child. They certainly cured my baby and saved his life. I believe them to be the best medicine ever sold for babies. Mothers if your babies are not well take my advice and try these Tablets.—Mrs. JAMES RIDDELL, Barrydale, Ont.

We have hundreds of such letters. If the Tablets were not what you need we would not offer to give them away and prepay them. If your baby is not well send for trial package. Hennequin Tablets have the letter "H" stamped upon them—this is your guarantee. All dealers, 25c per package, or 5 for $1.00 sent postpaid to any address.
